EDITOR'S NOTE

Help somebody, please ...

The way I see it, we have two choices in this world. We can be kind, or we can be unkind. To me it's a no-brainer which one we should choose. As Jesus said, the two main things we can do in this life involve love. First, of course, is our Creator, and second are our fellow human beings.

There are so many opportunities in this world to help others. This very month is Halloween, where youngsters will be gathering and gobbling up as much candy as they can get their tiny hands on. Volunteer at a local school or church for a safe Halloween project, bringing safety and smiles to the little tykes and comfort to their parents.

Grab a grocery bag, and help an elderly person to their car. Open a door for a mom who has her hands full with bouncy children. Visit a nursing home to read a book to a resident, and listen to them tell stories of their lives. It's been my experience that not only does it brighten their day, but I leave knowing a little more about life than I did before.

And, speaking of helping, Lisa Bell will be taking over as community editor of BurlesonNOW starting this month. She can use your help, just as I did, with story ideas, photos and good ol' Burleson hospitality. And, just like I am, she will be extremely grateful, since serving a community takes a community working together.

I'm still around. I will continue to write feature stories, so please keep sending in those ideas about yourself and your neighbors.

Let's unite, and let's help!

Joy ^{IN} THE JOURNEY

— By Lisa Bell

Did you ever wonder what pioneers endured when migrating? Youth from the Burleson Stake of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints wanted to experience a taste of what their ancestors endured. From 1856 to 1860, about 3,000 church pioneers participated in a 1,400-mile migration from Iowa and Nebraska to the Salt Lake City area.

When asked to lead the local Trek adventure, Linda Beauchamp readily agreed. "I love putting things together," she said. Her husband, Steve, supported her efforts and joined the journey with those aged 13 to 72.

"The Trek adventure is one that allowed both young and old to appreciate and come away with a small realization of what the early pioneers endured and experienced as they walked across the plains migrating to Utah's Great Basin area," said Burleson Stake President Kris Dearden. "It is important to remember and never forget our ancestors — their memories and triumphs, their struggles and trials."

The trip for youth ages 13 to 18 took place at Lyndon B. Johnson National Grassland near Decatur from March 14 to 16, 2019. Joined by a staff of 57 adults, 90 youth from Mansfield to Cleburne took the 24-mile walk with a desire to go beyond learning about history. Twenty-five of those youth live in Burleson.

Nine married couples acted as Ma and Pa for families of nine or 10 youth. Ten adults became cooks, and eight served as camp jacks, contributing where needed.

They helped repair broken carts, hauled water and porta-potties and took photos, among other tasks. The journey included three companies comprised of three "families" in each company. Church leaders went along, interacting with all of the youth. Except for those acting as Ma and Pa, the adults stayed in the background as much as possible.

"It was a blast for me," Steve shared. "I could go every year."

The Burleson Stake plans to repeat the adventure every four years. "We spent a year planning," Linda admitted. "The youth had to leave everything behind. We all had a five-gallon bucket containing personal essentials."

The youth communicated well. Purposely arranged in groups with people they didn't know, each faced the potential of a shock to the system. "We thought there'd be grumbling, but the youth were really good," Steve said. "We formed relationships that will last forever. The youth still address their adults as Ma and Pa."

"It amazed me how everyone worked together to make a memorable experience for the youth," Linda said. Admittedly, the event affected adults, too.

Although they didn't take any electronics, the group had music all the way, singing. When asked how far to go, one company captain always answered, "Three more miles." Each day of walking consisted of pushing a cart, simulating the way pioneers traveled.

As a family, they trekked to base camp, where they worked together to pitch tents — one for Ma and Pa, one for girls and one for boys. The buckets contained their belongings, but also worked as seats. Without them, they had to sit on the ground. Most of the kids designed a cushion for the top. Some decorated the buckets while others left them plain. Linda chose to make reversible cushions, which doubled as pillows. The staff delivered sleeping bags, tents, pillows, blankets and extra shoes to the campsites.

The youth chose the theme of Joy in the Journey. While everyone had their own individual perception of the situation, each understood that when you focus on joy in life's journey, you come away with that perspective. Bringing a set of Scriptures, the youth had study time. In the evenings, each family enjoyed meals and devotional time together. "It was an uplifting and spiritual time for all of us," Linda said.

The adventure in March was the first Pioneer Trek for most of the youth. Some are direct descendants of the pioneers, but that wasn't a prerequisite to go. Anyone with a desire to learn history could participate.

"It was amazing to see everyone come together as families and friends and go through what our ancestors did," said Maddie Evans, 16, from the Mansfield 2nd Ward. "I loved how supportive and positive everyone was, even though it was very cold. It was a great faith-strengthening experience."

Claire Beardsley, a 14-year-old from the Centennial Ward in Burleson, said,

"The hardest part of Trek was probably sleeping. You might think that would be the best part, but it was so cold. It was almost impossible to sleep."

Audrey Staheli, also 14 and from Mansfield 2nd Ward, shared the learning experience. "Going into it, we didn't have much confidence in our abilities, but we proved we could do hard things if we worked at it. We learned about working together. Two people would pull the handcarts, and two would push from behind. It was really hard, and we couldn't have done it if we didn't work together."

Anthony Sullivan, 15-year-old from Cleburne Ward, said, "We were out there for a couple days and, for many of us, our legs were so sore that we felt we couldn't walk another step. The pioneers did this for months. They were sore every day. Plus, it was cold, and they were hungry."

"Trek allowed me to get a glimpse into the trials the pioneers had to face," said Aimee Crowley, also 16 and from Mansfield 2nd Ward. "It allowed me to appreciate them more. I love and appreciate my ancestors that crossed the plains, pulling handcarts. My faith has grown immensely because of Trek."

The youth spent one afternoon on the trail making butter the old-fashioned way to have with the homemade bread that was made by women in the church. And while they may not have particularly liked the food provided, they ate it with gratitude.

Linda hopes the event grows. Although she knows preparation requires eating, breathing and sleeping Trek for almost a year, she looks forward to future adventures. Since completing the first Trek in the area, she can simply add to all they did this year, keeping joy in the journey — of treks and life. NOW

TALE OF TWO PATS

— By Rick Mauch

Pat Haley is proof that what the eyes see isn't always real. She is a sweet lady who doesn't look like someone who could write about murder and the darkness of life.

But open one of her books, and you are taken into another world. For example, her latest, Kiss 'n' Kill, is about a woman who stalks a former preacher in hopes of making him her latest victim.

"In almost every culture, if someone is found dead, you figure out what happened. You find out the truth of the situation," she said. "So why do we like murder mysteries? Human nature. When was the first murder mystery? Cain and Abel."

Pat's other book on Amazon is MotherLove. It is the story of two 14-year-old girls, one needing a heart transplant and the other the perfect donor match. Saving the life of one, a child by natural birth, creates a deadly scenario for the other, an adopted child.

So, it is clear that Pat follows no ordinary path when it comes to her imagination. She also admits to having no set plan for gathering ideas.

“Ideas are like germs. They float through the air,” she said. “Where do you not get them? They’re everywhere. Some ideas do, though, have a stronger lifespan for me. They talk louder.”

Pat, 68, has been writing in one form or another for the better part of five decades, though she only lately had two books published. She has several more manuscripts that she is in the process of putting together.

“I was writing in junior high, but I thought that was normal,” she said. “So I just wrote stuff down. Anything that came to me, I wrote it down.”

Pat also came from a family with parents who encouraged consistent challenges of the mind. Her dad worked in a research lab, while her mother, a stay-at-home housewife, believed in using as much of the mind as often as possible. Often they’d spend a family evening discussing various topics. It was those mind games that opened up Pat’s imagination for her life ahead.

“Pick a subject, take a side. I realize now that was a gift,” she said. “I learned to be analytical. Thoughts have hooks. If I’m looking at this in my perspective, it’s going to connect to another perspective.

“Also, my parents were voracious readers. I don’t remember ever not reading.”

Pat admits she sometimes gets asked by friends and neighbors, including fellow members at Alsbury Baptist Church, how she can write such dark tales. “Some say they really like it, but some say it scares them,” she said with a chuckle. “People have asked me if John [her husband] sleeps well at night. Yes, he does.”

Pat's repertoire of writing includes science fiction, fantasy adventure, mystery suspense, cozy murder mystery, thriller and comedy. She's also tried her hand at western. "I wrote one years ago. I don't know if it will ever see the light of day," she said.

And she has a solid collection of short stories. "There's a bigger market now for short stories than there has ever been," she said. "It's because of the Internet."

In fact, she is working on compiling an anthology of her short stories. "If I tie myself to my desk, it could be done in six months," she said, laughing.

Pat recalled having one of her short stories published almost four decades ago in a South African magazine. It was a twist on the story of Sleeping Beauty. "I made 100 rand," she said, which would be just over $7 in U.S. currency today.

"She's a character. She's right off her own page," said friend David Matthews, who is a member of Heart & Soul Writers with Pat. The group meets the third Tuesday of each month from 7:00-9:00 p.m. at Alsbury Baptist Church.

"When I first met her, one of the first things she told me was she's an introvert, but she's not an introvert when she talks about her writing," David continued. "I enjoy her wit and how it finds its way into her stories."

In all, Pat has written seven books. She is working on getting her third published. She self-publishes — something that is becoming more popular these days.

"There have been some fabulous writers who self-published. Charles Dickens was self-published," she noted. "It doesn't matter if it's ever published. As long as God sends me stories, I'll write until I'm called home." NOW

Hours: Monday-Friday: 8:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m.
Saturdays by appointment.

Often, experiences in life become the reason a person excels at their profession. Take, for example, Jill Allen, Burleson branch manager for Fairway Independent Mortgage Corporation.

"I bought a house in 1995, and it was a horrible experience. Having my down payment and closing costs change by $2,000 at the last minute was hard," Jill recalled. "After we closed, my mom put $20 under a magnet, so I could buy diapers."

Jill began as a bank teller while in college at Texas Wesleyan University. "After I graduated in 1994, I moved to mortgage. I'd had a baby. I needed the flexibility, and I needed money to pay bills."

Then came her bad experience buying a house as a single mom. She became determined to do her best to make sure others avoided such misfortune.

"It's not about the money," she said. "It's about the people."

As for what separates her and Fairway from other mortgage companies, she said, "Not everyone fits in a box. A mortgage line is the biggest transaction most people have. It's easy to forget what it was like to be on the other side, but I've been there, and I remember very well."

In fact, Jill was there again not too long ago — twice. She had a home built in Burleson, close to where she grew up in Joshua, and relocated her branch from Arlington, where she officed for almost a decade.

"In 2015, my son graduated high school and went to college in New York. I was single. I decided to build a house in Old Town," she said. "But during construction, I met someone and got married."

Hence, the house suddenly became too small. Now, she and her husband live in Egan, where they moved in December.

"We love it here," she said of the Burleson area. "I drive by my childhood home every day."

Jill moved her offices to Burleson in May 2018. She hesitated at first, not wanting to uproot her employees who worked in Arlington for so long. However, they fully supported the move. It has been a beneficial one.

"It's been wonderful. We have people in and out all the time," she said. "Burleson is a great place to do business. Everyone is so friendly, and there's a small-town charm."

Jill joined Fairway 10 years ago. She simply liked that their mode of thinking was in line with hers — finding ways to help people achieve their dream of home ownership in the smoothest and most comfortable way possible.

"Fairway was one of my clients when they were tiny. I was friends with the CEO, Steve Jacobson. He left a larger mortgage company to start Fairway. He and about 10 other people decided they wanted to do things differently," Jill said.

The company's philosophy is quite simple. The better they can make someone's life, the better they are doing their job. "It's not about the loans we close. It's about the lives we change along the way," Steve said.

Now, several members of Jill's family also work for Fairway. One of her sisters is a loan officer in Jill's office. Another sister works in the corporate office, and her son, Hayden, works in the marketing department of the corporate office in Carrollton.

"I've gotta say, it's a great feeling to have them share this with me," Jill said. "We're a big family here at Fairway, and our job is to make your family happy." NOW

Zoomed In: Ray and Waverly Haney

By Rick Mauch

Make a stop into the Burleson Visitors Center and Museum, and there's a good chance you'll meet Ray Haney and his wife, Waverly, who have been volunteers with the museum since 2003. Ray is originally from Virginia, and Waverly is from Maryland, but now they enjoy telling anyone who will listen about Burleson, the city they love so much.

"I'm from Edgewood, a little town like Burleson. Of course, Burleson isn't so little anymore," Waverly said with a laugh. "And the history of Burleson is amazing."

Ray said the residents of Burleson are, "Just neat people, and I like working around and being with neat people. We like making folks feel at home, whether you live here or are just visiting."

In the Kitchen With

K.K. SMITH

— By Rick Mauch

K.K. Smith has been in the kitchen for as long as she can remember. “My earliest memories of cooking are with my mother. We have a large extended family that gathers often to share a meal together,” she said. “My mother always looked for ways to involve me in food preparation for these celebrations.”

K.K.’s father was a music pastor at a local church, so though she was raised in Fort Worth, Burleson seemed like home. “The relationships formed here became my roots, so when it came time for my husband and I to choose our own home, Burleson just made sense,” she said.

So does cooking to bring joy to others. “Making someone happy by way of a plate of good food,” she noted, “is one of my greatest joys.” NOW

Pizza With Caramelized Onion, Apple, Bacon and Sage

Sauce:

6 slices uncured bacon, chopped
1 large yellow onion, thinly sliced
1 Granny Smith apple, diced
2 cloves garlic, chopped
1/2 tsp. dried sage, or 1 Tbsp. fresh sage, chopped
Salt, to taste
Black pepper, to taste

Crust:

1 ball of refrigerated pizza dough or 1 batch homemade pizza dough
Olive oil, to taste
Sea salt, to taste

Toppings:

1/4 cup Parmesan cheese, finely grated
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
1 cup shredded white cheddar cheese

1. For toppings: In a medium skillet, cook chopped bacon until no longer pink. Remove bacon from pan; set aside.

2. Drain all but 1-2 tsp. of bacon renderings; return pan to medium heat. Add onions; reduce heat to medium-low. Cook for 15-20 minutes, stirring frequently, until they begin to caramelize.

3. Add apple; cook over medium heat for 4-5 minutes, or until slightly softened.

4. Add garlic and sage; stir, cooking until fragrant, 1-2 minutes.

5. Add bacon back to the pan; stir to combine. Add salt and pepper.

6. For crust: Preheat oven to 450 F. Roll pizza crust onto preferred pan. Brush crust with olive oil, sprinkle edges with sea salt.

7. Spread apple, onion and bacon sauce evenly onto the crust; top with Parmesan, mozzarella and cheddar cheeses.

8. Place pizza in the oven; reduce oven temperature to 400 F. Bake for 12-17 minutes, or until the crust has browned and cheese is bubbly.

Honey Wheat Sandwich Bread

Yields 2 9-inch loaves.

4 cups white whole wheat flour (divided use)

2 cups unbleached all-purpose flour
1 1/2 Tbsp. dry active yeast

2 1/2 cups water, 105-110 F

1 tsp. salt

1/3 cup honey

1/3 cup canola oil

1. Mix together 2 tsp. of whole wheat flour, yeast and water to make a sponge. Cover; let rest until yeast is activated and bubbly, 15-20 minutes.

2. In a standing mixer with a dough hook attachment, add salt, honey and oil to sponge.

3. With mixer on low speed, slowly add in 3 1/2 cups of whole wheat flour, until dough begins to pull away from the sides of the bowl. Continue adding all-purpose flour 1 Tbsp. at a time, as needed.

4. Knead the dough in the mixer on medium-high speed for 7-8 minutes. Kneading can also be done by hand for 10-12 minutes.

5. Cover the bowl; let the dough rest for 45-60 minutes.

6. On a floured surface, divide dough into 2 sections; shape loaves. Form each section into a rectangle, roughly 9x12 inches. Fold the top third of the rectangle down; pinch shut with the heel of your hand. Bring the bottom third up to form the loaf, and again pinch shut. Place loaves seam-side down in a greased 9-inch loaf pan.

7. Cover loaves; allow dough to rise a second time, 20-30 minutes, or until it has risen 1-2 inches above the edge of the pan.

8. Bake at 350 F for 30 minutes, or until internal temperature reaches 200 F.

9. Let cool on a baking rack before slicing. Once cooled, loaves can be sliced and frozen.

Maple and Pumpkin Spice Granola

3/4 cup rolled oats

1 cup pecans, chopped

1 cup walnuts, chopped

1 cup almonds, chopped

1/2 cup raw pepitas

1/2 cup unsweetened coconut flakes

1/4 cup honey

1/3 cup maple syrup

2 Tbsp. coconut oil

1 Tbsp. pumpkin pie spice

1 tsp. sea salt

1/2 cup dried cranberries

1. Preheat oven to 300 F. Mix oats, nuts, pepitas and coconut flakes together in a large bowl.

2. In a separate bowl, mix honey, maple syrup and coconut oil. Add pumpkin pie spice and salt.

3. Add honey and syrup mixture to the oats and nuts mixture; stir thoroughly to coat.

Slow Cooker Beef Stew

4. Spread mixture onto a rimmed baking sheet lined with parchment. Bake for 20 minutes, stirring every 5-7 minutes to ensure the granola is equally browned.
5. Remove from the oven; stir in dried cranberries. Allow to cool completely before storing.

Slow Cooker Beef Stew

- 2 Tbsp. olive oil
- 2 Tbsp. ghee butter
- 2 lbs. lean beef stew meat

- Salt, to taste
- Pepper, to taste
- 1 Tbsp. flour (can substitute arrowroot powder for gluten-free)
- 1 medium onion, diced
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 8 oz. beer
- 32 oz. beef broth
- 3 Tbsp. coconut aminos or soy sauce
- 1 sprig fresh rosemary
- 1/2 tsp. oregano
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 tsp. dried or 1 Tbsp. fresh parsley
- 1-2 cups water

- 3 carrots, chopped
- 6-8 baby red potatoes, quartered

1. Heat a large skillet over medium-high heat; add oil and ghee.
2. Pat stew meat dry; season with salt and pepper. Add meat to skillet to brown on all sides, working in batches so as not to crowd the pan.
3. When meat is browned, set aside. Sprinkle flour or arrowroot powder over the meat; toss to coat.
4. Reduce pan heat to medium; add onions. Cook until translucent, 3-4 minutes.

5. Add garlic; cook until fragrant, 30-60 seconds.
6. Add beer to skillet, scraping the pan to deglaze. Add beef broth, aminos or soy sauce and spices.
7. Allow to simmer 5 minutes until slightly reduced. Add stew meat, skillet mixture, water (as desired, based on your preference), carrots and potatoes to a slow cooker.
8. Cook on low for 6-8 hours. Season to taste.

TravelNOW Timeless Travel

— By John T. Taylor

Do you ever think you would like to go back in time? Maybe not an earlier time but a simpler one, where residents still sit on their front porches and visit with their friends? A place where you are greeted on the sidewalks by people genuinely glad to see you? Can you even imagine such a place that also has quality events and attractions, as well as quality relaxation?

Tucked into the northeast corner of Texas, you'll find Jefferson, one of Texas' oldest and most historic cities. A charming destination for families, or a romantic weekend getaway for couples, you'll find myriad entertainment choices all year. With its 20-plus award-winning B&B's, top-ranked restaurants and exciting festivals, Jefferson is a must-see destination, and one to which you will want to return. Its location east of the Dallas-Ft. Worth area and north of Houston makes it easily accessible by major highways.

Founded in the 1840s on Big Cypress Bayou, Jefferson was once the largest inland river port in Texas. Steamships plied this river to New Orleans by way of the Red and Mississippi Rivers and brought a level of prosperity not seen by other cities in this region. This is still reflected today by the presence of nearly 100 entirely restored homes built in the 19th century, many of them open for tours. Surrounded by stately magnolias and gardens, they give visitors a glimpse into the grandeur that was Jefferson 150 years ago.

Today, that famed waterway hosts visitors to canoe and kayak past magnificent cypress trees draped with Spanish moss, reminiscent of states farther south and east. If that sounds too much like exercise on your visit, take a narrated riverboat tour with an experienced and entertaining guide and local historian. If you have more time and a passion for water activities, visit nearby Lake O' the Pines, as well as Caddo Lake, a haven for photographers and fishermen. Fully equipped campgrounds are available at both lakes.

Jefferson was designated "The Bed and Breakfast Capital of Texas" by the Texas Legislature, and those establishments found here are definitely deserving of recognition. From plantation breakfasts in many to charming hosts, you'll experience the graciousness and manners of the South with the friendliness of Texas. If it's a historic hotel you prefer, the Excelsior House Hotel is located downtown and has been in continuous operation since the 1850s.

While the pace is slower here, you'll quickly find an attraction to interest almost everyone and a memory waiting to be made. There are museums, galleries and an original restored Carnegie Library. For model railroad enthusiasts of all ages, the R.D. Moses Model Railroad is located in the Depot directly behind the Jefferson Historical Museum. Train rides, soda fountains, a petting zoo with exotic animals, shops and boutiques, informative horse-drawn carriage rides and coach tours on brick streets await your exploration and are in operation year-round. To fuel all that activity, you'll find Jefferson has everything from unique sandwiches, award-winning barbecue, burgers and fudge to bistros, wine, coffee bars and fine dining establishments. If you still have the energy, you will find ghost tours available on weekends with fascinating stories of hauntings, past and present.

Festivals abound all year with a candlelight Christmas season, an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration and a pilgrimage of homes. Add to that Mardi Gras, motorcycle rallies and car shows, Bigfoot sightings, history symposiums and Girlfriend Weekend book festivals, and you might have to stop to catch your breath. But, if you're just looking to get away from the crowds for a weekend, Jefferson offers that, too. And that feeling of relaxation and contentment you'll carry home with you comes free of charge. NOW

What Can a Financial Advisor Do For You?

What does investing mean to you? If the word makes you think of transactions — buying or selling stocks and bonds — you're looking at just part of the picture. To work toward all your goals, such as a comfortable retirement, you need a comprehensive financial strategy. And for that, you might need to work with a personal financial advisor. But what, specifically, can this type of professional do for you?

Here are some of the key services a financial advisor can provide:

- Help you invest for your retirement — An experienced financial advisor can look at all the relevant factors — your current and projected income, age at which you'd like to retire, desired retirement lifestyle — to help you determine how much you need to invest, and in which investment vehicles, to help you reach your retirement goals. To cite just one example, a financial advisor can review your employer-sponsored retirement plan and help you determine how to use it to your greatest advantage.
- Help you save for college — Higher education is expensive, and costs are rising every year. If you'd like to help your children — or grandchildren — go to college someday, you need to save and invest early and often. A financial advisor can suggest appropriate college savings vehicles and strategies.
- Help make sure you're well-protected — If something were to happen to you, could your family maintain its standard of living? Or if you someday needed some type of long-term care, such as an extended stay in a nursing home, would you be able to maintain your financial independence, or would you be forced to rely on your adult children for help? A financial advisor can recommend and possibly provide suitable protection products and services for your needs.

· Help you adjust your financial strategy — Not much will stay constant in your life — and that includes your financial strategy. Any number of events — a new child, a new job, a new retirement destination — can cause you to adjust your investment moves, as will some of the factors influencing the financial markets — economic downturns, changing interest rates, new tax laws and more. A financial advisor can help you change course as needed — and sometimes encourage you not to change course, when, in his or her professional opinion, you might be tempted to overreact to some event or other.

While a financial advisor can help you in many ways, you'll need, above all else, to feel comfortable with whomever you choose. Ultimately, you'll want to pick someone who understands what's important to you, and who will follow an established process to create personalized strategies and recommend specific actions needed to help achieve your goals. And, you'll want someone who will be with you in the long run — someone who will revisit your objectives and risk tolerance and who can adjust your strategies in response to changes in your life.

A financial advisor can make a big difference in your life. So, work diligently to find the right one — and take full advantage of the help you'll receive as you move toward your important goals. NOW

Investing is about more than money.

At Edward Jones, we stop to ask you the question: "What's important to you?" Without that insight and a real understanding of your goals, investing holds little meaning.

Contact your Edward Jones financial advisor for a one-on-one appointment to discuss what's really important: your goals.
