BIG DOGS, BIGGER HEARTS

— By Jordan DeWald

To know Jessica Moore is to know her dogs. If you see her around town, you are likely to see her accompanied by Gabriel. You cannot miss 2-year-old Gabriel, a Great Dane who weighs 180 pounds. Under Jessica's committed training, she and her dogs have participated in competitive obedience, gone on regular outings and, over the last decade, provided therapy visits.

Jessica and her husband, Kevin, have welcomed dogs of all sizes into their home, even having up to nine at one point. She intentionally chose some of the dogs, while others came to their home needing rescue. Their first was a 7-pound Pekinese. Now their home has two Great Danes, Meg and Gabriel. For the first time, they also have a cat who wandered onto their property and never left. Jessica loves her pets. "They've always added so much to my life," she said.

Jessica began training dogs more than 20 years ago. When a family dog became anxious, Jessica contacted a local dog trainer who introduced her to the world of obedience training. She not only saw benefits for the family pet but also found an activity she enjoyed that could include her dogs. She loved the team aspect between a dog and its handler and the unique bond it creates. She raised Miniature Australian Shepherds and began training them for competitive obedience. Jessica's brother brought home a Great Dane puppy, Hercules, whom Jessica took over care of during her brother's deployment. She fell in love with the breed and brought home a female puppy, Meg, and began working with them in competitive obedience as well.

Through that time, Jessica learned both how to train a dog and the benefits of an obedient dog. Speaking to that, Jessica said, "I've learned through the years that if you have an obedient dog, you can do a lot more things, and that dog is invited to a lot more places." Jessica enjoys taking her dogs with her on her daily activities, but she has to plan for longer outings when taking a dog because wherever the Great Danes go, they get a lot of attention! They can go into any environment without disturbing it. Meg sat quietly at a Burleson restaurant and listened to a local musician. Gabriel visits a family member in a Burleson assisted living facility, also bringing smiles to the other residents. Their older brother, Hercules, used to regularly run errands with Jessica. The dogs have all taken trips with Jessica and Kevin. Meg and Hercules attracted an audience in New Orleans, and Gabriel made friends in New York City's Central Park. Gabriel attends cattle sales, and he and Meg have a space at the Moores' office in their barn and event center at M6 Ranch.

A friend introduced Jessica to the work of a therapy dog. That friend, who took her own dog on therapy visits, recognized Jessica's relationship with her dogs and the team bond they'd formed. She felt that Jessica and her Great Danes would be a good fit, and the more Jessica explored the idea, the more it made sense. Jessica went through the certification process with Hercules and Meg, and then later with Gabriel when he joined the family. Hercules has since passed away, and Meg, at 9 years old, has retired. Currently, Gabriel is certified through Alliance of Therapy Dogs. He visits hospitals and DFW Airport on an official capacity. Jessica said the hospital work has transitioned from patient visits to staff visits. Health care workers welcome the comfort and peace that comes with a kind dog's visit in the middle of their emotional and stressful work environment. When Jessica and Gabriel visit the airport, he engages kids waiting for flights and soothes anxious passengers. They spend a lot of time in the international terminal, so they have gotten to interact with people from around the world. Other therapy dogs visit first responders, libraries, special needs centers and many other places on the long list of options. Jessica described the work as gratifying. "God blesses me with getting to be a part of the interaction," she said. Conversations open up, and walls are brought down just by the dog's presence. Hercules and Meg could bring laughter into hospital wings in their Halloween costumes. On the same day, they could be a quiet reassurance as a nervous patient hugged them.

The same patience and commitment to training that made Jessica's dogs good companions and competitors have made them into reliable therapy dogs. Obedience training, according to Jessica, makes the dog "dependable and manageable." That is how a 180-pound Great Dane can navigate around the equipment in a hospital room. Jessica emphasized the commitment it takes to train a dog because it requires time for designated training sessions independent of anything else. According to Jessica, the sessions should be "short, purposeful and one-on-one."

For Jessica, taking the dogs for a therapy visit has never been a wasted day. She gets to spend time with the dog she loves and make someone else's day better while doing it. NOW

*Limits and conditions apply

If your musical taste goes back to the popular music of the 1970s, or if you lived the '70s, you can recall "Just Dropped In (To See What Condition My Condition Was In)" as a song you could sing along with. The band was known as the First Edition, and it was often billed as Kenny Rogers and the First Edition. The band had an eclectic style that was not easily defined, and recognizing "Just Dropped In" coming from the same band as "Ruby, Don't Take Your Love to Town" might have required a keen ear or a very special fan.

The band, started in 1967, had a number of other hits and albums, but broke up around 1975. Kenny left the band with significant debt and a failed record label known as Jolly Rogers.

Kenny was born in Houston and had seven siblings.

His beginnings were humble, but in high school his musical talent began to show as he learned to play both guitar and fiddle. He played with a few small combos early on and landed a solo record deal with Mercury Records in the early 1960s. Without a hit song during his time with Mercury, his contract was terminated, and in 1966, he joined the New Christy Minstrels. A couple of other members of the folk group left with Kenny to form the First Edition. One of the descriptions of the First Edition was a psychedelic country rock band. Members of the band included Rogers, lead vocals and bass guitar; Terry Williams, lead guitar and vocals; Mickey Jones, drummer; Gene Lorenzo, keyboardist; and Mary Arnold, vocalist.

The band had seven Top 40 pop hits, including "Just Dropped In," "But You Know I Love You," "Ruby, Don't Take Your Love to Town," "Something's Burning," "Reuben James," and "Tell It All Brother." The band's style was contemporary in its day. Kenny's look was very different from his persona after he moved to his solo career in country music. He was actually referred to as "psychedelic" and "Hippy Kenny" with his long hair, modern dress, rose-colored glasses and even an earring. Kenny owed a lot to the First Edition, as he might never have achieved fame

ECLECTIC SOUNDS OF KENNY ROGERS

— By Bill Smith

as a chart-topping solo artist without it. It certainly made a mark on the radio listeners of the period but never achieved the status of making the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame.

Kenny's first solo hit was "Lucille." Recorded and released in 1977, it went to No. 1. His follow-up hits are well-known and continue to be played on classic country radio, as well as crossover stations. An example is "Lady," which was composed by Lionel Richie. It was a hit on country, pop, adult contemporary and rhythm and blues charts.

Of course, Kenny recorded duets with other artists, including Dottie West, Sheena Easton, Alison Krauss and Billy Dean. However, the duet most fans remember and consider iconic would have to be "Islands in the Stream" with Dolly Parton.

Great recording artists produce greatest hits albums, and Kenny Rogers' Greatest Hits, released in 1980, was certified Diamond for sales of over 10 million copies. In his storied career, Kenny sold over 120 million albums across the globe. Besides the diamond greatest hits album, he had 20 platinum albums and 11 gold. With 24 No. 1 hits and 12 No. 1 albums, he is one of the most successful artists of all time.

Accolades include 21 American Music Awards,

Academy of Country Music Awards including Entertainer of the Year and Male Vocalist of the Year, six CMA Awards including Lifetime Achievement, three GRAMMY Awards and in 2013, he was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum in Nashville. In 1986, he was voted "Favorite Singer of All Time" in a joint poll by USA Today and People Magazine.

As if his career as a singer were not enough, Kenny also achieved success as an actor in the TV series The Gambler and a 1982 movie called Six Pack. Another side gig for Kenny was photography. He published several books of photos, one of which was This Is My Country.

Kenny's farewell tour came in 2016 and was known as "The Gambler's Last Deal." He passed away on March 20, 2020, but his music lives on across generations. NOW

Waves and Rays Await

— By Virginia Riddle

Taking your first cruise can be an amazing experience. It's a trip families and/or friends can take where each person can spend time enjoying their own activities, or they can make memories together.

Each cruise line has its own vibe. Some are known as family favorites like Disney or Royal Caribbean. Others cater to couples or luxury filled times like Celebrity. Carnival is favored by young adults. Choose destinations and cruise lines accordingly. Inside cabins are cheaper but have no windows. Oceanview and balcony cabins provide a view, and suites come with extra perks. Mid-ship and lower deck cabins offer less movement if seasickness is a concern.

Select shore excursions, on board shows, evening dining seating, special dietary needs and events early, since the bookings fill up. Note the suggested packing tips and physical requirements.

Start early getting passports renewed or issued. If cruising internationally, check online with the U.S. State Department for visa requirements for the country/countries you will visit, and enroll in the State Department's Smart Traveler Program. If a minor child is traveling without both birth parents/legal guardians, several legal documents, including one for the cruise line, will require the other parent/parents/guardians' notarized signatures. These documents are available online. Prepare to spend more time checking in at airports and the cruise ship while those original documents are checked and scanned.

Arrange for international cell calling and medical insurance, if needed. Medicare/Medicaid and many private health policies don't cover international health care. Ships have a medical team for minor problems, but the costs are extra.

Packing Tips

Check the cruise line's dress code for different days/nights at sea and requirements for shore excursions. Laundry is available at an extra charge. Your carry-on bags should contain all medications; power requirements on board and for other countries (power strips are usually banned on board); and a change of clothing/swimwear, since it may take hours for checked bags to arrive at cabins. For the return trip, have all items you've purchased ready to declare at customs. Carry all documents on yourself in a safe place.

On Board

Find the assigned dining room, pools, entertainment venues, guest services and shore excursion gathering places. Main dining rooms and buffets are usually part of the package. Specialty restaurants are not.

Arrange for a Wi-Fi package, and set it up. There are usually child care/activities offered for every age. Register children the first day. Know and follow the rules and schedule.

If sea sickness is a problem, bring medication. Wash your hands often and well, especially before meals and after bathroom breaks. Touch as few common surfaces as possible. If traveling with a group, know your daily gathering place and muster station. Check on each other often.

Most ships are cashless. Your room key is an on board credit card and pass to get on and off the ship. Talk to kids about charging on their room keys. Gratuities on board will be charged daily per cabin, and extra gratuities for those who were special are appreciated by staff who work long hours. Know tipping requirements for shore excursions. Drink packages and other extra offerings might be worth the price depending on your plans/needs.

Ports and Shore Excursions

Ship-arranged tours are pricier than arranging your own private tour, but the ship's tours will get travelers back on time for the ship's departure. Private tours aren't guaranteed to do so. If traveling with children, parents/guardians must accompany them when departing or boarding the ship.

Be polite/cooperative at ports, and enjoy exploring in-country as a guest. Carry your cruise line's shore pass/key card, medical supplies and all other suggested items safely due to pickpockets. Wear appropriate clothing for that country. Listen to the guide's instructions, and follow time limits. Being left behind means you are on your own to get to the next port. That can be expensive. Most of all, have a great time! NOW

Zoomed In: The Holloway Family

By Jordan DeWald

The Holloway family knows how special Whiskey, their chocolate Labrador Retriever, is. His family describes him as “loyal and loves his family.” They said, “His family is his whole kingdom, and to us, he’s already royalty, we’re just hoping Burleson makes it official!” Burleson agreed, and Whiskey was crowned Homecoming King at a celebration for the Burleson Animal Shelter at the Mayor Vera Calvin Plaza. The fall months bring homecoming celebrations at local schools. The Burleson Animal Shelter joined in the fun, while raising money for its Sick and Injured Animal Fund. The community was invited to nominate their pet for King or Queen and vote for the court on social media. The Holloway family proudly escorted Whiskey, as he accepted his homecoming mum and was crowned Homecoming King.

Strutter captain, Ayalah Barrow, and cheerleader, Cody Vo, are the 2026 BHS Homecoming Queen and King.

The Burleson Animal Shelter celebrates their new Mobile Adoption Trailer with the sponsors who helped make it happen.

Emberlyn Reed is rewarded by Jennifer Herren with a pizza party for her family for her perfect attendance!

Congratulations to Stephen Spencer on his hole in one!

Thank you to BCBS students for helping clean up Burleson at the 2026 Trash Bash.

Happy  Thanksgiving

Zoomed In: Blue Beacon

By Jordan DeWald

A new superhero was spotted at Founder’s Day! Blue Beacon is a Hunger Warrior with a special superpower. He stomps out hunger with his friends at Project PACMIN! Blue Beacon is like the kids he greets. He loves fist bumps, and his favorite food is mac and cheese. Kids can literally see themselves in Blue Beacon. His face reflects back to children, so that they can see a superhero in themselves, and every child’s voice is his voice. His friend, Cindy Mendoza, chairs Project PACMIN, and because Blue Beacon does not speak, she spoke for him about the work of Project PACMIN. She said the ministry “feeds weekend meals to 250-plus Burleson ISD kids who have food insecurity.” Information about the 501(c) (3) organization can be found at projectpacmin.org, including ways the community can help.

Leslee and Jolee Henning are all smiles at a victorious eighth grade volleyball game at Hughes Middle School.

Theresa and Joel Fernandez celebrate Grandparents Day with Brady Allision at STEAM Academy at Stribling.

Members of the BHS Air Force JROTC lead the BHS Homecoming Parade.

The Burleson Police Department and the Burleson Citizen Police Academy Alumni Association enjoy a successful night at Burgers and Badges.

3. Gently loosen the skin over the turkey breast; rub half of the herb butter underneath.
4. Rub the remaining herb butter over the outside of the turkey.
5. Stuff the cavity with the lemon halves, quartered onion and rosemary sprigs.
6. Place the turkey on a roasting rack in a large roasting pan; pour the chicken broth into the bottom of the pan.
7. Roast for 3 to 3 1/2 hours, basting every 30 minutes, until a thermometer inserted in the thickest part of the thigh reads 165 F.

8. Let the turkey rest for 20-30 minutes before carving.
