FINALLY a way to fix the PAIN of a BULGING DISC

Are you suffering from back pain, arm or leg pain, numbness, tingling, or weakness in your arms or legs? Then it's likely you're suffering from a bulging disc. That's when one of your spinal discs is bulging and causing these, sometimes severe, symptoms because of the effect it's having on your nervous system.

You may have already had this diagnosed on an MRI and thought that there is little that can be done about it. Bad information is a major problem because, in the right hands, a lot can be done for you. To end the misery caused by bulging discs, you must have the right information.

Pay close attention because I'm going to destroy some important myths and give you the facts.

MYTH: Bulging disc problems will just "go away" with some rest.

FACT: If you are dealing with back pain, buttock pain, or leg pain, then you must seek help from a bulging disc specialist immediately. If left untreated, the problem can lead to permanent nerve damage and lifelong pain.

MYTH: Pain is the only problem associated with bulging disc issues.

FACT: In severe cases, this problem can lead to the inability to control your bowels, bladder, and sexual potency, resulting in embarrassing situations.

MYTH: You must take pain medications to deal with bulging discs.

FACT: Drugs like muscle relaxants, painkillers, narcotics, antidepressants, and anti-seizure medications have serious potential side effects and do not cure bulging discs.

MYTH: Stop exercising and get several weeks of bed rest to let the bulging disc recover.

FACT: Staying active can help relieve the pain and prevent it from getting worse. Staying inactive in bed could be the worst advice, based on a recent study in the Netherlands.

MYTH: "I must have done something wrong to damage my disc."

FACT: Physical work or simply sitting at a desk for long periods can lead to bulging discs. Accidents and trauma can also be culprits. Pregnancy can cause damage as well. Disc bulges can happen to anyone, including super-fit celebrities like Tiger Woods, Sylvester Stallone, and British Olympic medalist Ian Wynne.

MYTH: Disc bulges or herniations require surgery.

FACT: No! There's been a huge breakthrough in the treatment of bulging discs.

MYTH: "There's nothing anyone can really do. I'm just stuck with this for the rest of my life."

FACT: With the correct treatment from a healthcare professional who specializes in bulging discs, you can find relief from the core cause and the symptoms.

MYTH: Getting a bulging disc properly diagnosed is expensive.

FACT: Not true. Dr. Carl McAfee and his team of doctors in Weatherford are currently offering an initial consultation with one of their specialists for just $29.

Dr. Carl McAfee, DC, and his team of doctors are bulging disc experts in Weatherford. This procedure does not require a hospital stay, and in most cases, you'll be able to continue with your normal daily activities with little interruption. The focus is on finding—and correcting—the original cause of the bulged disc.

According to Dr. McAfee, "We use a specialized digital X-ray motion study analysis to precisely diagnose the cause of your bulging disc. This means superior long-term results for most people." Eighty-eight percent of people find relief from the pain and associated symptoms. Because the treatment is non-surgical, safe, and easy, most patients report relief from their pain and associated symptoms early in the process.

Take the next step—end the suffering with an initial $29 consultation. Secure a thorough examination with McAfee Chiropractic.

Call 817-594-0281 to schedule your appointment. Mention this article (CODE: WN1109BC), and they will happily reduce the usual consultation fee of $275 to just $29! Only 100 reader consultations are available at this exclusively discounted rate.

DEFINING MOMENTS

— By Amber D. Browne

Life has a way of providing exactly what someone needs at exactly the right moment. It might be an inner voice guiding toward a decision or a new opportunity never considered. These moments build experience. They build families and networks. Aledo resident Justin Loos' life has been full of moments that have shaped him into the person he is today. From family man to pond hockey extraordinaire, Justin is continuously on the move, taking care of responsibilities and enjoying life to the fullest.

What started as a Christmas gift of rollerblades in the early 1990s has transformed into an athletic adult hobby for Justin. "Being a boy, the next evolution once you have rollerblades is to pick up a stick and play hockey with it in the street," he said. Justin's parents saw his passion for the sport and registered him for an inline hockey league. He later joined the Oak Ridge High School club team near Houston, adding ice hockey to his résumé, which also included football.

A pelvic injury from an ATV accident forced Justin to quit high school sports and undergo physical therapy. "I started playing hockey again, and the doctor was really impressed with how quickly — I guess just because of the hip mobility that hockey gives you — everything had healed, and I had gotten all my strength back."

Three weeks after high school graduation, Justin left for U.S. Marine Corps boot camp, and hockey was put on the back burner. His decision to join the military came a year earlier following the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks and his parents' divorce. "I kind of always had an affinity for the military. I always respected guys in the military. Obviously when September 11th happened, it was an immediate, 'I'm going to go do this,'" he said.

During his first deployment, Justin began dating a young woman he knew from high school — Christa. "On our way back from the Persian Gulf, we landed in Hawaii, and she was there with her mom and sister, actually at Pearl Harbor, waiting on me to pull in," he explained. "Christa and I technically had our first date at a luau in Hawaii with her mom and my dad there, as well. We had chaperones on our first date."

Marriage later entered the conversation, and on a trip back to the States in December 2006, he bought a ring and received a blessing from her father. "He told me there's three rules. I had to raise the family in a church, I had to wait until she graduated college, and I had to get out of the military when my orders were up." Justin kept two of the promises.

THANKFUL FOR YOU!

In February 2007, he flew Christa out to California, found a little chapel, and the two married privately. A couple of weeks later, he proposed to her publicly on the big screen before a Clay Walker concert at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. In May, they discovered Christa was pregnant with their eldest, Jackson, and the two shared with family and friends they had secretly married earlier in the year.

Justin returned to the U.S. shortly before Jackson was born. After serving four years, he pulled his re-enlistment to focus on family. Christa continued college and graduated from Texas State University, and their second son, Grady, was born. Justin took night classes and transferred to Texas A&M University. Mechanical engineering was his original plan, but a full-time job and family life caused his grades to suffer. He pivoted and earned a degree in industrial engineering, which is more in line with his active personality. During his time at A&M, the couple had their daughter, Lyle, and their family of five was complete.

During COVID, Justin's passion for hockey reignited. He discovered an Aledo neighbor played for a beer hockey league. "It was not really ever something that I had thought about wanting to do," Justin shared. "He finally convinced me to go out and skate, and I didn't fall once."

Justin started subbing in games, playing on ice skating rinks across the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex. Now, Justin is rostered on three teams — two veteran-only teams, the Dallas Stars Warriors and the Dallas Patriots, and a beer league team, which includes many players from his time on the ice six years ago. "Those are the guys that we go and play pond hockey with every year," he said.

The Texas Rattlesnakes compete in winter pond hockey tournaments in Northern states. "You're literally just playing on a frozen pond," he said. "It's a way to go out and release some adrenaline, get good cardio in and just have camaraderie with the guys."

When he is not on the ice or attending his children's games and events, Justin is working for Lockheed Martin. He attributes his success to the work ethic he learned from his parents and while serving in the Marines, and to his education from Texas A&M. "And obviously marrying Christa — she has kept me in line, motivated me and kept me focused," he said. "Christa has always been my sounding board, the person to keep me on the straight and narrow."

Defining moments over the decades have built the life Justin lives now. The decision to pick up the hockey stick, to join the military, his once secret marriage to Christa, his degree plan pivot. The list goes on. But with his family, his Marine and A&M networks and his hockey brothers by his side, Justin will continue taking care of responsibilities and living life to the fullest. NOW

From Her Perch

— By Amber D. Browne

Finding comfort and peace in the familiarity of home is essential for a balanced life. Befriending a few once-hidden wildlife guests and recognizing a new pastime while relaxing under the large oak trees out back are added bonuses. Weatherford resident Christy Boucher discovered a new passion while perched on her back patio, and she now shares this interest with others on social media.

Christy began spending more time outdoors after retiring from nursing two years ago. She spent her mornings reading on the porch, but when she glanced away from her stories, she caught a glimpse of life unfolding around her. "It started with birds — just noticing — and it became more of a way to slow down and just be grateful for the little things," she said. "You don't realize how much you miss when you don't stop."

Christy's backyard of mature trees provides homes for birdhouses and feeders for a variety of birds and other wildlife, including roaming deer. She throws corn and chicken scratch for the turkeys. The number of turkeys has fluctuated over the seasons, and now nine toms visit her yard daily and roost in the trees. "I call them my boys," Christy said.

On a whim, she grabbed her phone and began filming her daily interactions with the neighborhood wildlife. She would show her husband, Rick, and other family members the videos and began adding commentary. It wasn't until after a contractor working on their home suggested it that she began posting the videos online. "It was August of last year when I started my social media, From Christy's Nest. I have Instagram, Facebook and YouTube," she said. "I just say what first comes to mind, and I post it. I don't fancy it up. It's just me talking to them like they're people." She calls her outdoor oasis her farm and often includes the family cat, Farm Kitty, lounging in the shade.

Visits from squirrels, opossums, skunks and a variety of birds such as crows, hummingbirds, blue jays, cardinals, roadrunners and woodpeckers — even an unexpected visit from a peacock and first flights by baby chickadees — have been captured in her videos. Her husband has joined in the fun, urging Christy to grab her phone when a new furry or feathered friend arrives in the yard. With the Audubon Bird Guide app, Christy has tracked 42 different types of birds traveling through her yard.

"It really all just started with acknowledging what's around us, and the beauty in it. You focus on what you focus on," Christy explained. Watching the wildlife reduces Christy's stress and grounds her. "Getting your bare feet in the grass and letting God's creation speak to you and just settle you."

She has followers from across the globe, and one of her videos of a tom in the pool has nearly 200,000 views. It is not about making money on the videos as she does not have enough followers to monetize her accounts. Instead, it's about sharing peaceful mornings and her connections with nature.

Although she never dreamed of starting a social media following, sharing her interactions with the wildlife online has been a positive move for her. "I find so much joy in it, and I think others do, too."

Christy captures squirrels playing in the yard and birds frolicking in the baths and sprinklers. She considers the baby squirrels comical. "They flip and twist and run in the heat of the summer. The squirrels will literally lay across the bird bath with their arms hanging over each end like, 'I gotta get some cool water on my tummy.' It's hilarious."

Life can get busy, but it is important for everyone to take the time to slow down and experience the world around them. "I think when we're younger, we're just so busy living life and working hard and raising kids, we don't have the time. I'm just blessed right now that I have the time to just sit and take notice." NOW

William Xavier Chandler

By Amber D. Browne

Plans are already underway for next year’s Parker County Literary Fest following the inaugural event in September. With financial help from co-host Vellichor Bookshop and several sponsors, event founder William Xavier Chandler hosted 28 authors, illustrators, editors and publishers to showcase their work to the local community.

Music was William’s passion at a young age, but an original song became an idea for a full-length novel. He has authored several books including two novels in a three-part series, the Davis McCarty Saga.

As he continues his author journey, William hopes to grow the Fest over the years. “The most important thing I learned is that there are so many good authors, good people and good will in such a tiny spot of the world; that is a good sign for the rest of the world.”

Cindi Neverdousky, 1st; Mike McCarty, 2nd; and Patricia Harder, 3rd, are recognized as the winners of the Weatherford Art Association’s October Artist of the Month competition.

John Turntine

By Amber D. Browne

Weatherford College is recognizing Director of Student Engagement John Turntine with the 2026 Presidential Service Award — the institution’s highest annual recognition for service. During the awards luncheon in late September, WC President Tod Allen Farmer highlighted Turntine’s commitment to students and the college community. “Students line up outside his office because they trust him to take care of them,” President Farmer told the crowd.

Turntine spoke with students more than 6,000 times throughout the 2025-2026 school year. “Service to the students is important to me,” he said. “Making sure they can meet their goals in whatever pathway they want to go on. So, for me, receiving this award made me feel good about knowing that listening to the students and putting their needs first is important.”
