Out with the old . . .

I'm just not a fan of New Year's resolutions, and I guess I'm old enough that a big celebration on New Year's Eve does not appeal to me because it will keep me up past my bedtime. The last time I purposely saw the new year in, I went with my wife and my son and daughter-in-law to a party in Fort Worth. We had planned to spend the night to avoid driving in the wee hours of the morning, but there was a change in plans that necessitated the drive back to Ennis. Believe it or not, I made it from Fort Worth to Reagor Springs and knew I was too sleepy to make the last seven miles behind the wheel. I pulled over, and my wife got us home.

If I am at home, which is where I can usually be found, I may watch the countdown for the ball drop in New York. Thank goodness there is a time zone difference, and it is only 11:00 p.m. in Texas! I don't know how those people in California can stay up until 2 o'clock in the morning, waiting for midnight!

All kidding aside, when I'm feeling particularly industrious, I'll sort the black-eyed peas, so they can soak overnight. Early the next morning, I will get them started in the Crock-Pot and probably put something on the grill that we can enjoy throughout the day. There will be a lot of football on TV on January 1, and I will watch as much as possible!

Welcome, 2020! We've been looking forward to greeting you!

. . . in with the new!

A LIFETIME OF COLLECTI

The front living room of Mary Ann Porter's home is filled with her collection of Gone With the Wind memorabilia. In 1936, when just a young girl, Mary Ann received an original edition of the book. That gift would be the start of a lifelong love of the story and the cornerstone of her now vast collection.

Warner Brothers released the epic historical romance movie in 1939. "I was only 9 years old the first time I saw it. My mother and I went to see it together," Mary Ann said. "I was fascinated by all the fancy dresses and homes and the musical score. I had already read the book because I got it for Christmas in 1936, the year it was published. Since then, I have read the book and watched the movie many, many times. It is my favorite movie and book."

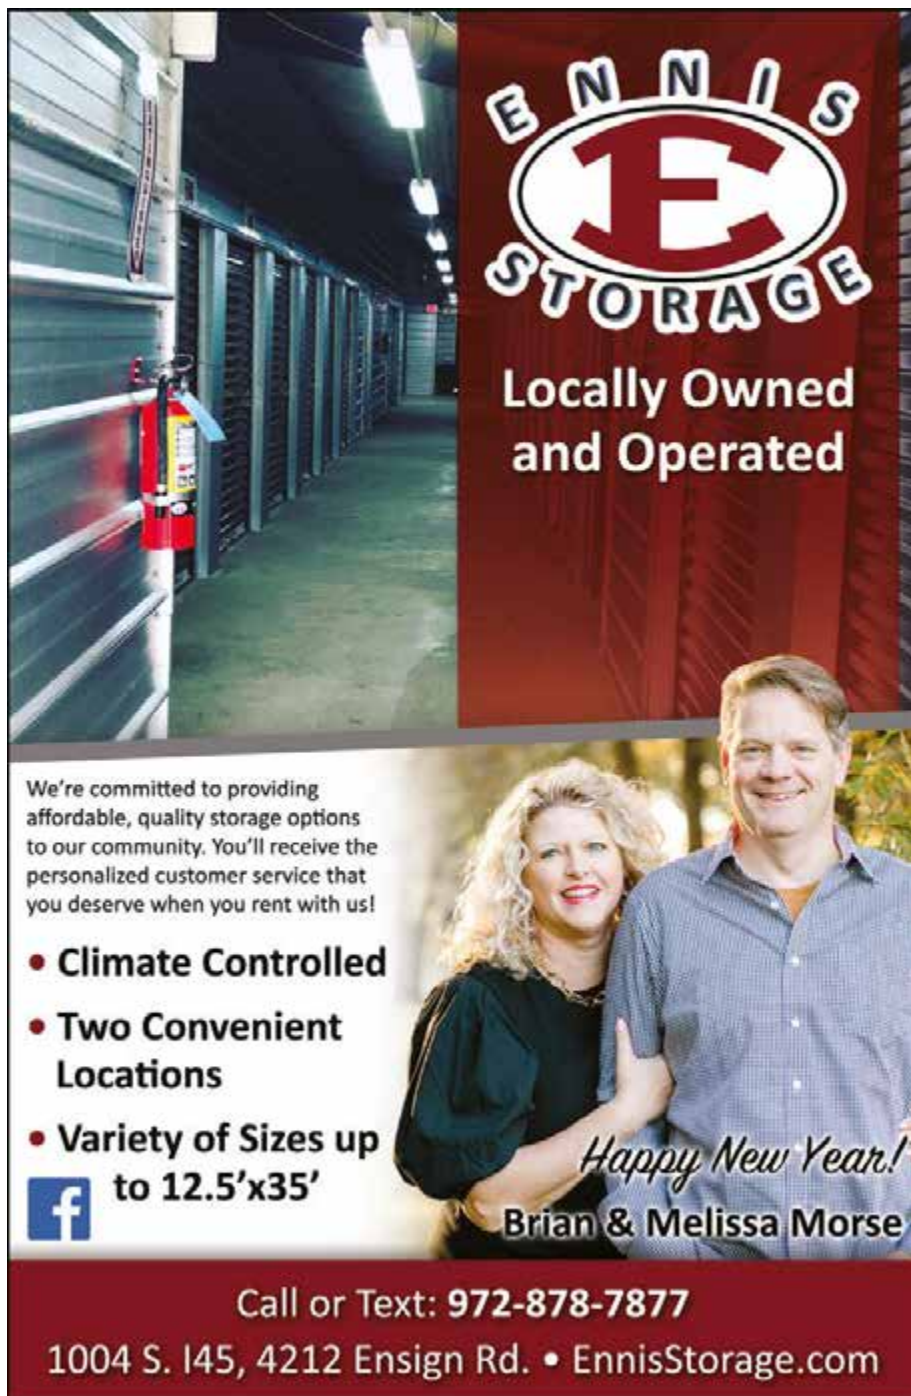

Mary Ann still has the original book, along with several other editions that she has collected along the way. Today, her collection encompasses much more than books. In fact, she has collected a room full of Gone With the Wind treasures.

"It was in the 1980s, while shopping at Town East Mall, that I spied my first Bradford Exchange Collector Plate of Gone With the Wind for sale, and I bought it. That began my collection. After that, anytime I saw something about Gone With the Wind, I would buy it, if I didn't already have it!" Mary Ann shared with a grin.

"The store where I got my first plate would get a new one every month. I would travel to Dallas and get each one, but, eventually, I began to order them through the mail. Then in the early '90s, I began collecting the Gone With the Wind Franklin Mint Dolls," she explained.

The back wall of Mary Ann's living room is lined with built-in glass and wooden cabinets that house part of her huge collection. "My husband built all those cabinets for me to keep my dolls in," she recalled. "I am so drawn by the beautiful clothes they wore. I always wonder how they made those elaborate dresses with the tools they had to work with back then. No telling how long it took."

Mary Ann has collected the entire cast of the movie. Of course, Scarlett is the most represented, with her many beautiful dresses. "A new doll would come out every so often, and many times, I would buy it. One of the last dolls they came out with was a doll of Scarlett in her wedding dress, but I decided not to get it because I was running out of room," she shared.

Along with dolls, plates and books, Mary Ann's collection includes a variety of other collectibles. Lighted porcelain houses and buildings are displayed as a small village. "I have the store, the church and the Tara mansion." Several Hawthorne porcelain figurines of the cast and the mansions are strewn throughout the village. Mary Ann can remember precisely where she found each piece. "Some of the things I received as gifts from friends and family," she said, "but most I collected when I was out shopping with my friends."

Mary Ann's daughter, Lynn Roberts, explained that even though her father hated to shop, he knew how much Mary Ann loved her collection. One Christmas, he searched everywhere until he found the first edition of a plate Mary Ann wanted. "Spending all that time shopping and looking for Mom's special plate was a big sacrifice for my dad, but nothing was ever too much for him to do for my mom. He loved to make her happy."

"I love to shop, so after the kids were older, my friends and I spent many days out antiquing in towns all around this part of Texas. I would pick up pieces here or there for my collection. Like these pictures over the couch, they were at an antique store in Corsicana back in the '90s," Mary Ann said.

"I got these music boxes from a music box store in Town East Mall back in the '90s. This one is of Bonnie Blue. I couldn't find much of Bonnie Blue, so I wanted it, but it was too expensive. Later that year, I went by the store, and they had put it on sale, so I bought it." She also has a music box of Scarlett that plays the score "Tara's Theme," and one of Rhett Butler sitting on a wooden box that plays "Rhett Butler's Theme."

Her eyes twinkling with glee as she showed off her delightful collection, Mary Ann picked up a porcelain Christmas ornament. "Hallmark put out these ornaments for the Christmas tree, and I love these porcelain bells with Scarlett on them." Mary Ann's love of the story that has captivated audiences of all ages for nearly a century inspired her to assemble a tribute to the unforgettable characters and the timelessness of romance. NOW

Where Are

Matt Howe

Matt Howerton loved growing up in Ennis and today recognizes how the community shaped him into who he is today, a reporter for WFAA News 8. He loves coming home to visit family and friends.

"Truth be told, I always wanted to be an actor," Matt said with a grin. "I did well in plays in elementary and middle school. One of my favorite memories is playing a part in Oliver Twist. Cathy Criner was one of my teachers, and she encouraged me. I was a jokester in class, probably too loud sometimes, and in high school, I liked doing imitations of some of our coaches and the political figures of that day. ... It turns out a lot of journalists are just actors with something to say."

After high school, Matt went to Baylor University in Waco and interned with a television station there. "Honestly, I was not sure I would go through with it. I have a friend in California who is one of the best actors I know, but he really struggles. In high school, I had friends who said I would be on Saturday Night Live someday. Tonya Harper was my theater teacher and said I would be the next Jamie Foxx!"

Somewhere along the way, Matt concluded that perhaps acting or comedy was not in his future, but broadcast journalism could be an outlet for his creative talent. He mentioned seeing Jeff Crilley, Brad Watson and others come to Ennis to interview his father about things happening in Ennis. These and many other journalists influenced Matt's career, but his upbringing in Ennis is what he most acknowledged.

“More than anyone else, I give credit to my family. My father taught me many things, including discipline, and my mother stayed at home and raised my sister and me.” Matt jokingly refers to his parents, Steve and Janie, as “Ward and June.” Fans of the late ’50s to early ’60s sitcom Leave It To Beaver will understand that reference.

Matt also spoke of his football coaches teaching another kind of discipline that he remembers very well. He recalled learning physical discipline from Coach Paul Willingham. “I learned to compete against myself, and it helps me compete against others. I learned that this is what it takes to succeed.” He also recalled other names of teachers, such as Harryett Hyde and Andrea Webb. “I remember great, heartfelt teaching and learning how to write creatively.”

Journalists must have a constant flow of stories in the pipeline. Of course, some of them are breaking news that must be covered with little notice. Other stories require research and creativity, something Matt said journalists call “filling the beast.” Matt has experienced both in his career. He recently won an Emmy for a story he did in October 2018 about a doctor who makes prosthetic eyes. He has also won one team coverage Emmy and has had a total of four Emmy nominations.

"I was one of the first journalists on the scene after the West Fertilizer Company explosion," Matt related. "I know Ennis felt windows shake when it happened. I was in Temple at the time, and my assignment editor called and said to get to West right away. I also remember my dad calling and saying, 'Don't go anywhere near the place.'"

"We covered that story from 'wall to wall' for a couple of years after the explosion. As we covered the story, there were lots of pictures of the buildings, but Monika Diaz, who was with Channel 8 at the time, advised, 'Everyone can see the devastation. People will understand the story when they can see people are injured.' I had been speaking with a woman named Misty Lambert, who had been standing next to a window in her apartment across from the plant when the explosion happened. Her injuries made the story personal."

There is breaking news like West, and then there are heartfelt stories like the story about women in the Texas prison system who were typing Braille for the blind, people they realized were less fortunate than they were because of their lack of sight. Matt commented, "How do you define redemption?"

Giving credit to those who have influenced his career comes easy for Matt. Former news anchor John McCaa stands out, along with current anchor Chris Lawrence, who Matt described as a "seasoned professional." Many more journalists have been mentors to Matt over the years, but he still fondly remembers his Ennis roots. "Thank you to everyone in Ennis. I was a pretty loud kid. Lots of people tolerated me. I love this city so much." NOW

Tonja Barnebee, CPA, PC

Tonja Barnebee CPA, PC
900 W. Ennis Ave., Ste. 103
Ennis, TX 75119
(972) 875-9900
tonjamb@sbcglobal.net

Hours: Monday-Thursday: 8:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m.
Friday: 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.

With more than 30 years of practicing accounting, Tonja Barnebee and her staff have the experience to be of significant assistance to any small business or individual with bookkeeping and tax filings. “We encourage people to come to us before they make their next investment, or make an asset sale, or decide to retire, to discuss what the tax consequences might be,” Tonja said. “It’s important that your investment adviser and CPA work together.”

Previously, the firm’s significant amount of audit work demanded much more travel and time. Now focusing on small businesses, nonprofits and individuals, the office is more relaxed. “I love accounting. Since we stopped our audit work, I’m actually able to be home on Saturdays now, and tax season is not as stressful. We are able to build great relationships with our clients, and I’m very happy that some of them have been with me for 30 years.

“My employees are so important to the firm, and we’re like family. When we first opened in Ennis, we had two telephone lines. Phyllis Hammond Stewart, who retired this year just after tax season, used to joke that she had to call one line from the other just to make sure the phones were working!” As the practice has grown, so has the staff with Allison Slovak, office manager, and Lori Alfaro and Renetta Novak, staff accountants. Tonja related that Allison “speaks millennial,” a great help nowadays.

Small businesses use Tonja and her staff as their bookkeeping department. It helps many avoid the extra expense of hiring an in-house bookkeeper. “Businesses come to us with questions, and we’ll have a brief interview with them at no cost. We’ll consider what they need done and may then quote a monthly fee,” Tonja explained. The monthly fee includes completing tax returns, which helps small businesses budget more efficiently. “They don’t have to be concerned that there will be a large bill once a year at tax time for forms preparation.”

“We are able to build great relationships with our clients, and I’m very happy that some of them have been with me for 30 years.”

Tonja gives back to the community in various ways. She’s a member of the Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce and her church choir. She also speaks to high school students about the need for good bookkeeping and accounting and about pursuing accounting as a career. “I tell them that if they really want to go to college, they can. Much of my education was completed with Pell grants and other assistance. The opportunity is out there if they want to pursue it.”

A loyal client base is the result of a friendly office dedicated to sound business principles. “You will get a call back from us within 24 hours. I stop other activity three times a day — I call it my ‘Dr Pepper time’ because I do it at 10:00, 2:00 and 4:00 — I collect my messages from the other employees and take the next 30 minutes or so to respond to calls and emails. Our clients know when they have a question or concern, they will hear back from us promptly.

“My employees have clients they work with regularly, and as we transitioned from less auditing to more small business and individual accounting, the employees told me I needed to get my own and leave theirs alone!” Tonja smiled as she continued, “My employees are great, and I’ve never had to micromanage. We give our clients very good service.” NOW

Zoomed In: Paul and Aleta Penfold

By Bill Smith

Paul and Aleta live in a beautiful older home on Preston Street in the historic Templeton-McCanless district. “We decorate each year as most of our neighbors do. In mid-December, some of our neighbors will gather with us on the porch to watch the carriage rides,” Aleta explained.

Paul continued, “We’ll have chili and some spiced wine, plus everyone will bring a dish. It is a good time we look forward to each year.” Aleta pointed out that Christmas is the date Jesus Christ was born, and Paul added, “It is a season to remember what is important in life.”

In the Kitchen With JINA ARMSTRONG

— By Bill Smith

Jina Armstrong likes having friends and family come to visit. “When you have a good meal and plenty of it, they tend to stay at the table and visit longer. That’s my favorite reason to cook, so they will stay longer,” Jina related.

“I got my love of cooking from my grandmother, Mawzie. She taught me a lot of things, most importantly, she taught me about Jesus, loving your family and food!” Mawzie’s handwritten recipe for chocolate pie hangs in Jina’s kitchen, and it brings back fond memories of her childhood and the time she spent with Mawzie and Pa.

“Now I’m ‘Mawzie,’ and I can’t wait to teach my granddaughter, Jane, how to cook chocolate pie and tell her all about the fun I had with my Mawzie!” NOW

Pepperoni Dip

2 cups mozzarella cheese, shredded
2 cups cheddar cheese, shredded
1 cup mayonnaise
1 4-oz. can chopped mushrooms
1 6-oz. can chopped black olives
1/2 medium onion, chopped

1 bell pepper, chopped
1 cup pepperoni slices, chopped

1. Mix all ingredients together thoroughly; pour mixture into an 11x7-inch or 9x13-inch dish.
2. Bake at 350 F for 25 minutes; serve with tortilla chips

Claire’s Favorite Meal

To make this meal go even further, I sometimes cut the chicken breast into strips.

3 Tbsp. olive oil
H-E-B fully cooked savory seasoned chicken breast
2 Tbsp. garlic, minced
1 lb. cherry tomatoes
1 1/2 sticks salted butter
1/2 to 1 cup fresh basil, chopped, to taste
1 1-lb. box angel hair pasta, prepared per box instructions

1. Heat olive oil in a skillet. Add the H-E-B chicken breast; cook on medium heat until lightly brown and juicy. Remove the chicken; set aside.
2. While the oil is still warm, add the garlic. Cook for 3 minutes, stirring constantly.
3. Halve the tomatoes. Add tomatoes to the skillet; sauté and crush the tomatoes with a spoon to release the juice.

4. Add butter. Once the butter is fully melted and all ingredients are nicely combined, add the basil. Let simmer for 2 minutes.
5. Return the fully cooked, warm chicken breast to the skillet. Cover; simmer for about 10 minutes.
6. Serve over angel hair pasta with a tossed salad and garlic bread.

Mama Jay's Caramel Orange Pecan Ring

- 1 Tbsp. butter, softened
- 1/2 cup orange marmalade
- 2 Tbsp. pecans, chopped
- 2 10-oz. cans fluffy buttermilk biscuits
- 1/2 cup butter, melted
- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon

1. Preheat oven to 350 F. Using the 1 Tbsp. of softened butter, grease a Bundt pan.
2. Drop marmalade by spoonfuls into the prepared pan; sprinkle with pecans.
3. Dip each individual biscuit into the melted butter.
4. Coat biscuits with brown sugar and cinnamon.
5. Stand the biscuits on edge in the prepared pan. Sprinkle them with the remaining brown sugar, cinnamon and butter.
6. Bake for 30-40 minutes, or until brown. Cool in the pan for 5 minutes. Invert onto a serving platter.

Mawzie's Chocolate Pie

Filling:

- 3 Tbsp. cocoa
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup corn starch
- 3 cups milk
- 5 egg yolks
- 1 stick butter
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 piecrust, baked

Meringue:

- 5 egg whites
- 5 Tbsp. sugar

1. For filling: Mix cocoa, sugar and corn starch. Heat milk, but do not boil it. Add enough warm milk to mix well.
2. Add the egg yolks to the cocoa mixture.
3. Mix well; add this mixture to the warm milk.
4. Return to medium heat, stirring until the pudding mixture thickens. Add butter and vanilla.
5. Stir until the butter is melted and the vanilla is mixed in.
6. Pour filling into piecrust.

Mawzie's
Chocolate Pie

7. For meringue: Add egg whites and sugar to a bowl. Beat on high speed until meringue peaks form.
8. Top the pie with the meringue. Bake at 300 F for 15 minutes, or until the meringue browns. Serve warm or refrigerated.

Monkey Bread

1 cup sugar
1 Tbsp. cinnamon
3 cans refrigerated biscuits, cut into quarters
1/2 cup pecans, chopped (optional)
1 1/2 sticks real butter
1 cup brown sugar

1. In a bowl, mix together the sugar and the cinnamon.
2. Roll cut biscuits in the cinnamon-sugar mixture.
3. Place coated biscuits in a Bundt pan, alternating with the pecans.
4. In a saucepan, melt butter. Add brown sugar; heat until bubbling. Remove from heat; pour butter mixture over the biscuits.
5. Bake for 30 minutes at 350 F.

Banana Pudding

1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, room temperature
1 can sweetened condensed milk

1 pkg. instant vanilla pudding
2 cups milk
1 8-oz. container Cool Whip (divided use)
1 box Nilla Wafers
4 bananas, sliced into rounds

1. In a bowl, add cream cheese, sweetened condensed milk, vanilla pudding and milk. Mix together using a mixer until smooth.
2. Fold in half of the Cool Whip.
3. In a deep dish, place a layer of Nilla Wafers. Add half of the bananas on top of the wafers. Spread half of the pudding mixture on top of the bananas; add half of the remaining Cool Whip.
4. Repeat layers ending with the remaining Cool Whip.
5. Chill for 4 hours or overnight before serving.

TravelNOW Adventure Awaits

— By Virginia Riddle

What is Hózhó? As many adventure-seeking travelers to the Moab/Bluff, Utah, area learn, words don't do justice to this Navajo concept of balance and beauty. The ancient, vast wilderness of Native-American reservations and national parks envelopes visitors. Gone is the hustle and bustle of modern cities as time and space become redefined. Come, breathe deeply and embody Mother Nature's peace, balance and beauty, while hiking, mountain biking, rock climbing, rafting, camping, ballooning, kayaking, bouldering, canyoning, horseback riding, backpacking, stargazing, fishing, golfing, skydiving, bird watching, ATVing or visiting ancient sites.

Travel from the east to Bluff takes folks to the Four Corners, the only place in the U.S. where one can lie down in four states at one time — Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Utah! Be respectful of the posted Native-American reservations' laws while traveling through the many scenic miles of open-range grazing on the area Apache, Navajo and Ute reservations. Traveling on the Trail of the Ancients Scenic Byway brings visitors to Canyons of the Ancients National Monument, Mesa Verde National Park and Hovenweep National Monument. Each location preserves prehistoric native cultures, particularly the Anasazi, interspersed with interpretations of the area's pioneering heritage. More than 6,355 recorded sites in the Canyons of the Ancients give visitors the "highest known archaeological site density in the U.S." Visit ruins of prehistoric to 12th-century archaeological sites and take advantage of free, guided talks and interpretive programs available at the visitor centers and museums of each site.

A listing in 1,000 Places to See Before You Die brings folks to otherwise relatively unknown Bluff, located 100 miles almost due south of better-known Moab. The ancients first settled the area around 650 A.D., and Mormon pioneers founded the town of just over 300 residents in 1880, earning its listing on the National Register of Historic Places.

Adventurers take advantage of outdoor sports and photographic opportunities on the San Juan River, or at nearby Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument and the Glen Canyon National Recreation Area located west of town. Within an hour's drive in any direction, there are three state parks, Natural Bridges National Monument and the Blue Mountains, home to Manti-La Sal National Forest with lakes and spectacular views.

After busy days spent sporting with one of several guide services, dine and lodge at locally owned restaurants, lodges, cabins, Bureau of Land Management campgrounds or RV parks. Hot tubs and pools are always a welcome way to end the day and meet fellow adventurers from all over the world, while soothing aching muscles and enjoying an "off-the-grid" experience.

Continue northward to Moab, touted as the "Adventure Capital of the United States," famous for its Arches National Park, containing more than 500 natural stone arches sculpted by water, ice, underground salt movement and extreme temperatures. The often snow-capped La Sal Mountains serve as a backdrop to the different shades of red, brown and sand arches. Adventures and photographic moments lie within nearby Canyonlands National Park with its many canyons and buttes formed by the Colorado and Green rivers. This vast park is divided into four ecological districts — Island in the Sky, The Needles, The Maze and the Colorado River and tributaries. All share a desert climate, so stay hydrated when venturing into this wilderness backcountry.

Professional guides, equipment rentals and park services abound, but if going solo, follow all park rules. Moab offers museums and many restaurants and lodging choices, including some national chains. A sunrise or sunset walk in Arches National Park is a must, as is a soak in a hot tub or swimming pool during evenings.

The Moab area was long used by Ute Indians. While the French and Spanish explorers and later prospectors came to the area, it wasn't until the Mormons arrived in 1878 that there was a permanent settlement. Enjoy more beauty by taking the Old Spanish Trail that once linked Santa Fe, New Mexico, to Los Angeles, California, homeward until a dose of Hózhó necessitates a return visit. NOW

Dr. Richard R. Knight, M.D.

Priscilla, Grand Prairie, TX

I started Diet Solution because nothing else was working. I signed up at two different fitness clubs, and I even attempted the Keto diet. However, I didn't realize that accountability is what I needed. I gained 60 pounds while pregnant with my son. Within the next four years, I only lost 20 of those pounds. My weight gain caused me to slip into a depression while I was wedding-dress shopping. I was no longer confident and mentally battled with my weight daily. A family member mentioned Diet Solution, and I noticed she had lost a lot of weight herself. I decided to give it a try. I was given the freedom to be able to eat most of the food I enjoy, and if not, DSC was able to provide me with the proper substitution. Weekly check-ins were quick and easy! It was a great feeling to know that you were losing weight and inches! Within three months, not only did I lose all the weight I gained, but I even got down two pounds lower than what I was before getting pregnant with my son. The best news is I am still keeping it off! I love how people all around me notice my weight loss. It has brought out the confidence that I lost. I recommend DSC to anyone that wants to lose weight, no matter how many different diet programs you have tried!
