Hello, Happy Hearts!

Despite feeling like a hibernating bear, since I'm staying close to home this month and most fun times with friends and family are cancelled or postponed, I am thankful and positive. Together, while apart, we will survive this virus, the flu and the weather.

A love of everything history and a recent electrical problem with my internal "ticker" gave me time to think of all the pioneers in medicine, as well as our local medical personnel and facilities, who make it possible for us to survive health scares today. I played with Google and found Dr. Rebecca Lee Crumpler. In 1864, she became the first Black woman to earn a medical degree in the U.S. She practiced in Boston, Massachusetts, and Richmond, Virginia. A Book of Medical Discourses, with advice on pediatric and obstetric treatments, was published by Dr. Crumpler. She married twice and bore a daughter.

Online searches are becoming my go-to places to find little snippets of bios and happenings of the not-so-famous, since travel and reading historical markers is restricted these days. Back in the day, not so long ago, when I shared the 50 states with my kids and was working on the same goal with my grandkids, we stopped at every marker. They called the edifices "hysterical markers," because I was so nutty about learning more history!

It will be interesting this month to see how COVID-19 changes the Super Bowl LV game and halftime show. Athletes and coaches are challenged in finding new ways to play. Let's enjoy the pro sports and support our local teams.

Stay safe. Stay well!

Rotten tomatoes may sound helpful when referring to the popular movie-rating website, but when that process is happening to purchased or homegrown produce, it can spell disaster for future dinner preparations. A 13-year-old eighth grade Corsicana Middle School student, Sarah Beck, enjoys finding answers to how to best store tomatoes and bananas and grow algae as a biofuel in a lab. She successfully competes in school science fairs, 4-H and FFA science and public speaking competitions and in the Amazing Shake National Competition, and she is already earning college scholarships. “My favorite school subject is definitely science,” Sarah stated.

Additionally, she’s a straight-A student and loves to participate in volleyball and other 4-H and FFA activities. “I have a love for sports and public speaking,” Sarah shared. She’s serving as student council president for a second year and has been her 4-H club’s secretary, treasurer and recreation leader. Sarah is a 4-H ambassador for Navarro County and has served on the county’s 4-H council. A Corsicana native, Sarah is supported in her activities by her parents, John and Shari Beck, and her two older brothers, John and Rudy. “It makes me feel special when my family comes to my competitions,” she said.

Her school science fair projects focus on food products, environmental services and natural resource systems, social science and animal science. “Every time I’ve won, I’m forced into a new category,” Sarah explained. She must read, research, know her history, collect data and create tables and graphs. “I pick projects based on problems I notice or ones the world faces,” she added.

In FFA science fair competitions, Sarah has earned $20,000 in scholarships at the San Antonio Livestock Shows as a fifth- and seventh-grade student competing against high school students. “They didn’t have separate competitions for juniors,” she explained. She’s also won scholarship money at the Houston Livestock Show in the junior division. “My mom or FFA sponsor, Miranda Johnson, takes me to competitions. The car rides are memorable because of the other students and sponsors I get the spend time with,” Sarah said. She has also competed at the State Fair of Texas, Heart O’ Texas Fair and San Angelo Livestock Show.

Competition isn’t all preparation and presentation. “I have the opportunity to visit with other contestants from across Texas, while waiting on results,” Sarah said. In speech competitions, she first presents to the judges only. “At the conclusion of each speech, judges are allowed to ask questions,” she explained. Scoring happens as each contestant finishes, and the top two students from the room advance to the finals, which is open to everyone to watch and learn.

FFA and 4-H science fair competitions are like school competitions, since both utilize presentation boards divided by categories. Judges can ask questions following her presentation. Her most memorable moment came at the San Antonio Livestock Show competition when a fifth-grader. "I was competing in the largest category against high schoolers," Sarah recalled. "They only award five places and call them in reverse order. When I heard my name called as the winner, I was shocked. Winning again last year is also memorable because I believe I'm the only junior-level student to have won twice in San Antonio."

Last year, Sarah competed in Ron Clark Academy's Amazing Shake National Competition. "It was fun and useful, since it teaches manners and etiquette and helped my public speaking skills," she explained. After multiple weeks of local competitions, Sarah was one of 11 students who advanced to the national level, which was supposed to be held in Atlanta, Georgia. "It was cancelled due to COVID-19, but the academy hosted an online Zoom competition, where my monologue of a Finding Nemo scene was featured on Facebook Live, while people watched across the world," Sarah remembered. "I advanced to Round Two after placing 56th out of about 300 kids in Round One." Her sponsor is CISD educator, Laura Green.

Like many competitors, Sarah has a superstition she uses before competing. "I always have to wear my hair in a high, braided bun for competitions," she said. "This was how I wore my hair during my first win at the State Fair of Texas."

Everyone teases me. I also always pray before and after I go in to compete!"

This experienced competitor had suggestions to give to those new to competition. "Be yourself, and know what you can accomplish," she advised. "Have a little fun with the judges. And, finally, different judges on different days might give different placings, so celebrate a win, and move forward when you don't win. Our schools and county offer numerous opportunities for students to choose from based on their strengths and abilities."

Sarah is a volunteer through 4-H and with her church. "I have helped host animal vaccination clinics and bake sales, visited nursing homes, donated gift bags to CASA and recognized local police and fire departments. I go on mission trips, help build wheelchair ramps for people and help with community and college food drives."

Sarah is looking forward to enjoying her high school years before attending college, hopefully, following other family members to Texas A&M University to major in a medical or business field. "I'm keeping my options open, but I'm focused on careers in veterinary medicine, dermatology, ophthalmology and law," she said. "I'll be able to represent myself well through my ability to speak publicly."

This student council president does have one item on her political platform. "Society focuses on sports, but kids excel in more than just sports," Sarah stated. "I'm helping pay for college through public speaking. Schools have 'signing ceremonies' for athletes. It would be awesome if schools also had 'celebration ceremonies' when students advance to the next level in other types of competitions." Sarah and many of her fellow academic competitors have wins in their futures to celebrate. NOW

Hours: Tuesday-Friday: 10:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
Saturday: 10:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.

Owner Julee Emmons invites folks to, “Come dig our stuff,” at the Armadillo Emporium on the Fairfield historic square. The store features vendors’ antiques, vinyl records, books, furniture and furnishings for home and garden, jewelry, handcrafted soaps, bath accessories, children’s clothing and spirit wear for area schools. “I enjoy being able to work where I grew up,”

Julee said. “It’s nice to see friends and family every day, and I’m blessed to call many of my customers dear friends.”

With such an eclectic array of items that changes often, there’s no telling what unique finds visitors can peruse. Julee owns one Armadillo Emporium shop space — Juls By Jul — featuring boutique jewelry, a collection of one-of-a-kind designs and T-shirts. “I provide customers with the latest fashion trends in jewelry and accessories,” Julee shared. Individual shop owners “man” the emporium, so customers can discuss the history of an antique item or speak directly to an artist about his or her work in the relaxed atmosphere. All major credit cards, PayPal and Venmo are accepted.

Juls By Jul was established by Julee in 1994, and she opened Armadillo Emporium in 2012. The businesses are members of the Fairfield Chamber of Commerce and were named the Chamber’s Small Business of the Year in 2013. The businesses have earned Best of the Best for Antique Store and Jewelry Store multiple years.

"It's a challenge to keep up with the ever-changing retail world today," Julee explained. I'm thankful for social media, especially during our mandatory COVID-19 closure in March. We were able to offer product through live shows on Facebook and sell for curbside pickup and delivery, and my Juls By Jul collection is available online.

Customers can also prime their creative side by booking a Paint Night. The monthly event is held, usually on a Thursday from 6:00-8:00 p.m. "Everyone's welcome to enjoy a fun and relaxing two hours of acrylic and canvas painting with friends and family," Julee said. "We also offer private painting events for birthdays or company parties."

Truly a native daughter, Julee's father is from Fairfield, and her mother is a Teague, Texas, native. Julee graduated from Fairfield High School in 1991 and earned an associate degree from Tyler Junior College in merchandising management. She furthered her education with a Bachelor of Science degree in fashion merchandising with a business minor in 1998 from the University of North Texas. Julee was recognized in 2018 as UNT's College of Merchandising, Hospitality & Tourism's Outstanding Alumni.

Julee brings to Fairfield experience gained from working in retail on a national scale. "Upon graduation, I began my career with a large jewelry manufacturing company as tradeshow manager," Julee recalled. "I traveled to major wholesale market tradeshows, and in 2008, I became a merchandise coordinator for over 30 USA merchandisers. During my wholesale/manufacturing career, I was instrumental in hiring over 50 students from UNT's internship program. Many of those students continued with the company as employees following their internships.

"Today, I am living my dream as a full-time entrepreneur, working back home in Fairfield at the Armadillo Emporium," Julee concluded. "Thank you for shopping Juls By Jul and at the Armadillo Emporium and giving me the opportunity to live my dream!" NOW

While Ashley McCalvan enjoys gardening and cooking, her heart belongs first to animals. Her Boston Terrier gets to come with her to work every day, since Ashley is a kennel tech and rescue coordinator with the Corsicana Animal Shelter. "I've been involved in animal rescue since I was 16 years old," Ashley said. "At the shelter, I find rescues for animals that wouldn't normally find homes. It's rewarding." Ashley's community volunteerism is centered around helping other area city shelters. "My love for animals is a 24/7 thing," she explained.

Every animal has a story. "Akaido, the kitty, is one of five born to a stray cat," Ashley shared. "She's a short-haired tabby, who, at 14 weeks old, is available and ready for a new home."

CookingNOW In the Kitchen With GAYLE STEED

— By Virginia Riddle

Admitting she and her husband, Frank, love to eat, Gayle Steed also enjoys the creativity of cooking. “Frank’s my best critic,” Gayle proclaimed. Before the pandemic, the couple traveled the U.S. in their RV, enjoying different cuisines. “I read cookbooks for pleasure and get recipes from traveling, magazines and the Internet,” Gayle added.

Southern cooking and Tex-Mex are favorite choices, but Gayle enjoys experimenting. Quarantined, she used gardening as therapy, growing herbs and tomatoes. What she didn’t grow, she purchased from the Farmers Market. Experimenting with vegan cooking, the Instant Pot and papillote cooking (food wrapped in parchment paper or foil) has provided Gayle with fun times.

“I especially love trying new spices,” she added. “Flavors of dishes served together should complement each other like guests at a party.” NOW

Asparagus Roll-ups

Serves 4.

Tortillas:

16 thin asparagus spears
Olive oil, to taste
16 slices Provolone cheese, thinly sliced
16 slices sweet ham, thinly sliced
4 8-inch flour tortillas

Sauce:

1 cup cilantro, chopped
1 tsp. minced garlic
2 green onions, chopped

3 plum tomatoes, seeded and chopped
1/4 tsp. kosher salt
1 Tbsp. butter
1/2 cup heavy cream

1. For tortillas: Preheat the oven to 350 F. Lightly sauté the asparagus spears in the olive oil; remove and drain.
2. Roll an asparagus spear, cheese slice and ham slice in each one of the tortillas. Generously brush rolled tortillas with olive oil.
3. Put the tortillas, seam side down, in a greased 9x9-inch glass dish. Place the uncovered dish in the oven for 15 minutes, or until the tortillas are lightly browned and the cheese is melted.

4. For sauce: Combine the first 5 ingredients; sauté the mixture in the butter until the vegetables are tender.

5. Add the cream; heat the mixture until it’s warm. Pour over the asparagus roll-ups before serving.

Fried Brie Salad

Serves 6.

1 5-oz. bag mixed spring salad greens
1 egg, beaten
2 Tbsp. water
1 1/2 lbs. round brie, cut into
1/2-inch wedges
1/2 cup breadcrumbs
1/2 cup vegetable oil
French dressing

1. Wash the salad greens using a salad spinner or pat dry. Refrigerate the salad greens until ready to use.
2. Beat the egg with the water; dip the brie wedges in the egg mixture.
3. Roll the wedges in the breadcrumbs coating them completely; chill.

4. Just prior to serving the salad, heat the vegetable oil in a skillet; fry the chilled brie wedges 2-3 at a time. The wedges should not touch. Brown lightly and quickly, so the cheese doesn't run.
5. Place the lettuce in bowls; toss lightly with French dressing. Top with the fried brie; serve immediately.

- 4 oz. cheddar cheese, shredded

2. Stir in tomatoes, Ro-Tel, corn, black olives, chili powder and salt. Heat the mixture to boiling; pour into an ungreased 2-qt. baking dish.
3. Prepare the corn bread batter; pour it over the meat mixture. Sprinkle with cheese.
4. Cook at 350 F for approximately 40-50 minutes, or until golden brown.

Chicken in Lemon Sauce

- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper

- 1/4 tsp. fresh thyme, minced
- Pasta or rice, as needed
- Lemon, thinly sliced

1. Salt and pepper the chicken. In a large skillet, heat the butter and oil over medium heat. Brown the chicken on both sides; remove from pan.
2. Add the wine or chicken broth and lemon juice; stir to loosen browned bits from the pan. Bring the mixture to a boil; cook 2-3 minutes or until the liquid is reduced by half.
3. Stir in the cream, basil and thyme. Add the chicken; return the mixture to a boil.
