Love is in the air!

Valentine's Day. What is the history behind this day that we celebrate and show our love to significant others? Historical accounts claim the celebration stems from a pagan fertility festival or recognizes a martyred Christian saint, according to History.com. The first recorded reference of St. Valentine's Day as a romantic holiday stems from Geoffrey Chaucer's 1375 poem, "Parliament of Fowles." Some joke the greeting card companies created this holiday, but according to History.com, written valentines first appeared in the 1400s. A poem by Charles, Duke of Orleans, to his wife in 1415 is the oldest known valentine. Whether written words, fresh flowers or decadent chocolates are selected to express appreciation on this heart-filled holiday, showing gratitude to loved ones is essential.

In recent years, icy weather has forced many in the local area to cancel Valentine's Day plans. Hopefully, the weather will cooperate this month, and celebrations with loved ones will go off without a hitch. Cuddling up next to a warm fireplace and reminiscing about the good times is an inexpensive way to keep your loved one close. For an evening out, local restaurants often offer Valentine's Day features that may include dinner for two, complete with drinks and dessert.

If an evening for two is not in the cards, many may choose to practice a little self-love on Valentine's Day. Why not book a massage, take a weekend trip to a destination on the bucket list or take some time to relax and wind down at home? Gratitude and love for oneself and others can be a cornerstone of good health, one that needs to be emphasized often.

Have fun out there!

"The Right Plan For Your Needs"

46TH ANNIVERSARY

COMMITTED TO Creativity

— By Amber D. Browne

*With more than 20 self-published books to her credit in less than a year, Weatherford author, illustrator and artist Danica Esparza shows no signs of slowing down anytime soon. Her children's books range from Western favorites, such as The Little Texas Bolo Tie and Ranger the Ramblin' Tumbleweed to a series inspired by her late grandmother, My MooMoo, and many more.*

Danica expressed her creativity for the written word and artwork as a young child when she would handwrite greeting cards for family and draw her classmates as cartoon characters to present as gifts. When her 20-year-old daughter, Kaden Reamy-Tunison, was younger, Danica pondered writing children's books, but the idea fizzled. About five years ago, the dream rekindled when she discovered aspiring authors could self-publish books on Amazon Kindle Direct Publishing. She added the intel to her storyboard, and in March 2024, Danica self-published her first book featuring a character sparked from her 6-year-old son's imagination.

"It was amazing. It became into something that I never thought it would be. It was really all of Trey's little stick bread characters that he came up with. He kept saying, 'Mamma-ma Bread,'" she explained. Danica began drawing Trey's characters on the Procreate app on his iPad. "It came out so cute." Through trial and error and lots of YouTube videos, this self-taught publisher authored and illustrated her first book — Mamma-ma Bread and Me. "I had a dream of all these other book ideas," Danica said. Those dreams soon became reality.

For her first few books, Danica used her finger to draw the illustrations on the app. "I didn't even have a stylus pen or really know what that was," she shared. Danica's daughter visited from California and gave her a stylus pen. "It helps so much with the details," Danica explained.

Danica often stays up into the early morning hours writing and drawing. "It's kind of like my me time, but I can't stay too focused on it because I'm a stay-at-home mom," she said. Although 6-year-old Trey and 2-year-old Kenna keep her busy, Danica's dedication and determination to her self-publishing journey are inspiring. "I'm learning to take a break here and there and relax," she shared. "I don't have to hurry, hurry, hurry and get it published. On the Ranger the Ramblin' Tumbleweed story, he's always in a hurry. That's me," she confessed.

With two young children and so many book ideas, Danica seems to always find time for the next storyline. She prefers to write the story first, typically with a comedic plot, and then develop the characters. "Mostly, I'm a sucker for stuff that has a touch of nostalgia to it. Maybe that's why my cartoons are kind of simple and remind me of when I was younger, how I used to draw things."

Her My MooMoo character, a cow that dresses in various Hawaiian muumuus inspired by her late grandmother, Johnnie Clark, has developed into a series. "She had every muumuu there was with matching earrings and the red lipstick. She never went anywhere without her red lipstick," Danica shared about her grandmother.

"I don't see myself as a writer. I'm more of an artist. That's always been my real passion. But I can rhyme," she shared. Her Western collection includes other titles such as Duke the Boot and Pancho the Concho, which incorporates Spanish verbiage. Danica created a coloring book to accompany The Little Texas Bolo Tie book and published a Christmas recipe scrapbook — Santa's Family Cookbook — this past December.

More realistic artistic Western books teach young children the alphabet in The Western Brand ABCs: A is for Ace and their numbers in The Cattle Call, which also features different breeds of cattle. Much research went into creating these two children's books, which feature factual information. "This was harder than just coming up with stuff," she admitted.

A special book published by Danica was authored by her son, Trey. It is called Dad's Book. "I was trying to get him to do all of the illustrations for the book, but his hand got tired," she laughed. She used one of his illustrations and drew the others, which went well with his storyline. "It came out really cute." Initially, Danica's husband, Aaron, was unaware they were writing Dad's Book. "When I first read him the book, he was like, 'You should go buy that book for Trey because it's funny.'" After publishing the book, they presented Aaron with a copy. "He loved it."

Danica plans to keep a record of Trey's imaginative characters and ideas for potential books, just in case he wants to continue his publishing career in the future. "He comes up with little stories, or he'll sing a song. I think it's so cool that he's so creative."

Danica's books are available locally at Teskey's and Byrd Mill, along with several online boutiques and on Amazon. She also participates in book readings at Playhouse Children's Museum, attends local festivals to share her books with the community and donates books for fundraising efforts.

Danica is also known for her artwork, some of which is displayed at Adobe Western Art Gallery in the Fort Worth Stockyards. In their Weatherford home, her paintings, murals and crafts are on display, adding color and sophistication to rooms. Danica is a self-described DIY enthusiast and enjoys refurbishing furniture and painting other pieces built by her husband.

She comes by her artistic qualities naturally. Her mother, Sandi Williams, would often paint skulls acquired from ranches in her hometown of Mission in South Texas. "I've always been around it, so it's in my blood," Danica shared. "She's very Western, and I didn't know I liked that style until I was 35ish. I really started going back to that Western style. I just love it so much."

With endless ideas yet to be realized, Danica plans to keep writing, illustrating and publishing additional books. "I would love to make a career off my books." NOW

With a drive to share her love of volunteering with her daughter, Beth Culler joined a group of other Aledo moms to found the National Charity League, Inc. Parker County TX Chapter in 2023. Beth had been a member of the Aledo chapter of Young Men’s Service League, where she volunteered in the community with her son, Davey. “I loved watching him grow into a leader. I was looking for something similar to do with my daughter, Tori,” Beth shared.

“This chapter means so much to me to have this time together with my daughter — learning, growing and serving others in our community,” Beth said. “Sharing my love of volunteering with my daughter and watching her grow as she serves and in the leadership positions of NCL is priceless.”

A-Ward Construction Services

Willow Park, TX

Hours: Monday-Thursday: 7:00 a.m.-7:00 p.m.

Friday: 7:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

Saturday: 8:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

For nearly three decades, John Ward, owner of A-Ward Construction Services, has been turning his customers' visions into reality. John's passion for construction came to him honestly. "Pop was a builder in Gainesville, Florida," John explained. In his early 20s, John took a different path for a short while and worked in computer programming. He preferred an outdoor setting to the office, so he took a leap and opened his first construction company, J&B Services, named after John and his son, Billy. John moved with his family to Texas in 1992, and after nearly a decade working for others in the industry, he opened A-Ward Construction Services in 2000.

A-Ward's main focus is kitchen and bath remodels that encompass everything from the floor to the ceiling. "We can gut them. We can take the tubs out and redo showers. Everything — cabinets, countertops, granite," he said. "I have contractors for everything." Other services include driveways, foundations, fencing and patios. "If it's got construction in it, I'm on it," John shared. "I've done everything. I'll do a house from the ground up. Whatever they're out there looking for, I've got it."

His trade contractors — plumbing, electric, HVAC, drywall, paint, etc. — are all licensed and insured. His paint and drywall crews have been working with him for about 20 years. “They’re all loyal. They’re honest. They’re clean-cut. They speak English, and if they don’t, the head crew guy does. And I’m always around.”

When first meeting with a potential customer, John discusses the potential client’s wants and needs, as well as expectations and proposed timeline. He will create a proposal, and if the budget works for the client, the subcontractors will walk the job to present an itemized proposal. The customer has the options to pick and choose what they want included in the job. John offers the client an opportunity to demolish the space, tearing out the old to the studs and disposing of the materials. This step gives the customer a chance to be involved in the process, if they choose, but most prefer A-Ward to handle the job. Customers can also supply the materials, or A-Ward can purchase their selections for them.

“Customers want to be involved. They may not want to touch it, but they want to know, and that’s why I keep them abreast of everything.” At the end of each day of construction, John calls or texts the client with an update of what happened on the job site and a preview of what is to come the following day. “I expect communication, so I keep the customers abreast of everything, and they like it.”

A-Ward Construction Services works with residential clients in the local area up to 50 miles outside of Willow Park in any direction. A 30-percent deposit is required, and John draws the remaining balance in equal amounts each week during the job timeline. A-Ward does not offer financing, but cash and check are accepted.

“I’m a good guy. I’m going to be hands-on. I’m going to walk them and talk them through it and make them as comfortable as possible,” John said about his customers. “I’m a small guy. I’m not out here to make a million dollars a year. I’m out here to make people happy and keep money coming in.” As an involved owner at A-Ward Construction Services and a self-described people person, John plans to help his customers along every step of the building process until their vision becomes reality. NOW

CookingNOW

IN THE KITCHEN WITH MADISON GULA

— By Amber D. Browne

Those who know Weatherford resident Madison Gula lovingly refer to her as the "Sauce Queen." Nearly every dish she creates for her husband and close family members features one of her signature sauces. A Friday night favorite? Madison's Spicy Sausage Rigatoni. "I like to call it Fancy Mac and Cheese. The secret ingredient in this recipe is the Brie. It makes the sauce so creamy and delicious."

Most of her recipes are discovered on social media. "After I make a recipe once, I usually will remember the ingredients and just make it my way." However, Madison's Linguini and Clam Sauce recipe was inherited from her Peper. "I was blessed because he was able to teach me right before he passed away. This recipe is a family favorite." NOW

Linguini and Clam Sauce

- 1 lb. linguini pasta
- 4 10-oz. cans chopped or whole belly clams
- 2 Tbsp. olive oil
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 1/2 bulbs garlic, minced
- 1/4 tsp. white pepper
- 1 Tbsp. oregano
- 1 Tbsp. basil
- 1/2 cup Sauvignon Blanc or your favorite white wine
- Lemon slices, to taste
- Parmesan cheese, grated, to taste
- Red pepper flakes, to taste (optional)

- 1. Cook the linguini pasta according to package directions. Pour the juice from the cans of clams into a large bowl; set the clams and juice aside.
- 2. While your pasta is cooking, add the olive oil and onions to a large skillet on medium heat. Cook until the onions are translucent; add the garlic.
- 3. Add the white pepper, oregano and basil to the onion and garlic mixture; stir. Add the white wine and the reserved clam juice. Combine well; simmer on low for several minutes. Add the clams; simmer for 3 minutes. Add the cooked pasta; combine. Serve with lemon slices and grated Parmesan cheese. Sprinkle with red pepper flakes, if desired.

Spicy Sausage Rigatoni

- 1 lb. rigatoni pasta
- 1 Tbsp. olive oil
- 1/2 onion, chopped
- 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 6 spicy sausage links, casings removed
- 1 Tbsp. cornstarch or flour
- 1/3 cup white wine
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. pepper
- 1/4 Brie wheel
- 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese, grated

- 1. Cook the rigatoni pasta according to package directions.
- 2. Add the olive oil, onions and garlic to a skillet on medium heat. Cook until the onions are translucent. Add the sausage; chop up the sausage as it cooks.
- 3. Once the sausage is cooked, sprinkle it with the cornstarch or flour to thicken the sauce. Add the wine, heavy cream and milk; mix well. Add the salt and pepper; stir. Boil the mixture, and then turn down the heat to a simmer, stirring occasionally.
- 4. Cut off the rind from the Brie; add chunks of the Brie to the sauce. Stir until melted. Add the Parmesan cheese to the sauce. Add the cooked pasta; combine and serve.
