EDITOR'S NOTE

Butterflies are Mother Nature's earrings!

One of my favorite things about April is the fascinating annual Monarch butterfly migration, when millions of Monarchs leave the forests of Mexico and head north to Canada. Amazingly, it takes three to five generations of butterflies to complete one full yearly cycle.

Adult butterflies leave Mexico in early March on a pathway almost straight through Waxahachie. As these butterflies begin to encounter milkweed, they lay their eggs. Milkweed is the only group of plants upon which they will lay their eggs. The kind of milkweed we have around Waxahachie is called Green Antelopehorn milkweed (Asclepias viridis). It is a native plant that grows naturally in unmown fields, yards and grassy areas all around the area.

Soon after laying her eggs, the mother Monarch dies. Within a month, the egg hatches, and the caterpillar will grow up, feeding on the milkweed — which, serendipitously, makes the caterpillars taste bitter. Predators have learned to avoid them. Once the caterpillars transform into adult butterflies, they somehow know to continue the migration farther north. This new generation then lays its own eggs, and the cycle repeats itself.

Eventually, in early fall, a special generation of Monarch is born called the Methuselah generation. These butterflies somehow know not to mate. Instead, they spend their energy flying thousands of miles south to Mexico. They overwinter in the forests until spring, when they begin the next migration. They are the butterflies that are arriving in Waxahachie right now and finally getting to lay their eggs.

I love to set out a plate of bananas for the Monarchs. Sometimes, I will have 20 or 30 Monarchs eating at one time!

Happy spring!

TEXAS STRONG

The can-do spirit of Texas is one of resilience, compassion and faith. From localized, natural disasters like tornadoes, floods or fires to regional ones like Hurricane Harvey, Texans rally together when there is a crisis. Together, we fight the problem, and together, we solve it.

The COVID-19 social distancing measures may feel completely unnatural to how we normally deal with emergencies, but, actually, by following these guidelines and keeping each other safe, we actually are all fighting this together. We can also fight together by supporting local businesses, calling or messaging loved ones, buying groceries for people in high-risk populations and praying for one another.

Here at NOW Magazines, we are committed to helping our local economies by helping promote our local businesses. We hope to help ease some of the discomfort of social distancing by bringing some of the best of the community home to you through our stories on local residents. And though some of the events or competitions mentioned in some of this month's articles may have been cancelled after we went to press, we hope that you will be encouraged by reading about the good and positive things that are a part of your hometown.

POSITIVELY MARKED AND A STATEMENT OF A STATEMENT OF

— By Bill Smith

What could motivate someone to finally commit to and achieve a life-changing, even lifesaving, goal after trying and failing so many times? After years of yo-yo diets and exercise programs yielding temporary results, Vance Hinds started his life-altering journey after watching a comedian, whose podcasts he followed, complete a half-marathon after just two-and-a-half weeks of preparation.

The comedian was Bert Kreischer. Bert had been a "party animal," and Vance could relate to that lifestyle. Reportedly, some of Bert's comedian friends vowed to get sober and change some bad habits. After he noticed what a positive impact the changes had, Bert commented that he felt like he could "do anything," and one of Bert's friends wagered that he couldn't complete an upcoming half-marathon. Complete it he did! It was after seeing a video of Bert crossing the finish line that Vance made his own public video, of himself at 475 pounds, sitting in his recliner, vowing that if Bert could do it, he could, too. "I put my video on social media and tagged Bert. Bert tagged one of his comedian friends, Tom Segura, and said, 'Changing lives.' The next morning, I did my first weigh-in video. I stood there in my underwear, and my talking scale — I could not see the numbers — announced my weight of 475 pounds."

A week later, Vance did another weigh-in and was at 478. However, his commitment was undeterred, and in the coming weeks and months, the weight would start coming off, some weeks 10 pounds, some weeks eight. Vance's social media posts began to go viral.

Vance reflected on some of the lowest points in his life that preceded this inspirational life-change that began in 2017. "In 2012, I was deep in debt and my law practice was in jeopardy. One day, I felt like I could not breathe, and the hospital said my lungs were full of fluid. The first thought was a pulmonary embolism. After five or six days in ICU, I left with a diagnosis of congestive heart failure.

"I have three kids, who were teenagers at the time. I left the hospital with two goals in mind that I wanted to complete before I died: get the kids all past 18 and get some kind of pension set up for my wife."

Soon thereafter, Vance closed his law practice and went to work as a justice of the peace court prosecutor. After a couple of years, a position in the civil division opened for Vance, and

910 S. 9th Street Midlothian, Texas 76065 MIDTOWNEAL.COM he has continued there. "For five years, I worked for the DA's office and my weight was 450 to 475 pounds. The chair I still have at my desk is oversized. I broke chairs that others could use without a problem."

Vance did not see exercise as an option, although he did receive some good news from a cardiologist who could not find even a trace of congestive heart failure. A visit to an orthopedist was not as positive. Vance's knees were very painful, but the doctor would not agree to surgical correction unless Vance weighed less than 300 pounds.

After he began posting his weekly weigh-ins in November 2017, he began to say "yes" to anyone who offered to help him keep his weight-loss commitment. He was walking and doing water aerobics. He committed to a low-carb diet. He had lost 30 to 40 pounds.

"In January of 2018, I had a message on Twitter from Diamond Dallas Page that said if I wanted some help, send him a private message. Friends and social media contacts told me I would be a fool not to let him help me, to be a part of his program. I said 'yes' to his offer to help. The program has been amazing. He takes traditional yoga moves — I still do the downward dog — removes the spirituality and adds calisthenics like pushups and crunches. One main goal is to keep the heart rate up.

"He also dramatically changed my nutrition. Basically, it is eating 'real' food, not processed foods, gluten-free, non-GMO and keeping proteins down. Another key component is super-positivity."

Vance's story is being shared via social media literally all over the world. One contact Vance inspired, Chase Greene, said, "I am in my 10th month and am down 162 pounds from 521. I also had type 2 diabetes and high blood pressure, and both reversed during the first four months."

Aldo Fernandez shared, "My daughter married two years ago. I wore the largest suit the big-man stores carry, and I could not button it. My younger daughter is getting married in May of 2020. When I saw the video of Vance's success, I said, 'If he can do it, I can.' I stepped on the only scale we had, and it pegged as high as it would go, so I really don't know how much I weighed when I started. Later, I found a scale that went to 700 pounds, and I weighed 565, so that is what I call my starting point. Since I saw Vance's video in January 2019, I have lost 145 pounds, and my goal is to lose 150 more by May 2020 for the wedding."

The most recent weigh-in for Vance reveals a weight loss of 202 pounds. He has gone from the self-proclaimed "couch potato" to an athlete completing 12 triathlons, an open-water swim of two-and-a-half miles and numerous long bicycle rides, including recently completing the Hotter'N Hell Hundred in Wichita Falls. "It took me 10 hours to complete the 100 miles, and I admit I was the last one to finish. They were taking the signs down when I finished, but I finished," he said with a wide smile.

Vance's journey has inspired people all over the world to reach their goals, but he sums up his story this way: "I've been given a second chance at life. Any of the people that reach out to me, I help. Health, relationships and love are all that matter today." NOW

Waxahachie's newest set of shooting stars is the WISD shotgun team. In only its first season, the team already has enjoyed success and popularity. "We had about 250 to 300 families show up at the informational meeting. It was insane," team head coach Don Williams said. "The only team in North Texas larger than us is Allen High School, and they only have about 10 more." The WISD shotgun team boasts about 78 members and includes participants from grades six through 12.

Don formerly was the coach of the Red Oak ISD team before stepping away for a few seasons due to conflicts with another job. It also was from Red Oak that the idea came to have a team in Waxahachie.

"Our teacher-sponsor was previously at Red Oak ISD. He brought the idea over," explained Jennifer Teixeira, president of the WISD shotgun team booster club and parent of two team members. "Then we got Don involved," she said.

Don knows how to lead his team members to success. While at Red Oak, he had three national champions in three years, and that was with a team that had less than one-third of the members he has on the roster at Waxahachie. The Waxahachie squad, which is open to anyone living within the WISD boundaries, has 65 boys and 13 girls.

The first competitive meet the WISD team attended in early November 2019 was very successful. The team finished third out of 13 teams, winning first among junior varsity girls, first and third among varsity girls, tying for first and taking second in the intermediate boys division and taking second and third in the intermediate girls division.

"That put us on the map," said Booster Club Vice President Auston Ingram. "Every time I go into a gun shop and mention I'm from Waxahachie, they say, 'Oh, we've heard of you guys.""

Red Oak's shotgun team, currently inactive, was sponsored through ROHS but was open to students outside their district boundaries. Some members of the Waxahachie team, though they attended WISD schools, competed with Red Oak. One such member is Waxahachie junior Dominec Teixeira.

Dominic said that he's glad he can now wear his own school colors when competing, and he's thrilled at the support the program is getting in its inaugural season. "I was surprised there were that many people at that first meeting," he said. "I was thinking, We're going to have to have different practice times."

Don said the sport also provides a chance to compete for some youths who otherwise might not have an athletic opportunity. "We've got kids who can't play sports because of health problems, but they can do this," he said.

The team competes in the Scholastic Shooting Sports Foundation. Participants can advance to regional, state and national competition, which this year will be in Marengo, Ohio, in July.

The team competes once a month. Their final regular season meet will be at Weatherford this month, followed by state in May and regionals in June, both in San Antonio.

"We were very confused when the Red Oak team went away, but we were going to shoot somewhere, and I'm so glad we have our own team now," said senior Rachael Edgar, who attends Waxahachie Global High and was the first place finisher in the girls' varsity division of the team's first meet.

"I knew, if anything, I could shoot for Ellis County 4-H, but I'd rather shoot for the school district team," said Rachael's sister, Kaitlyn Edgar, a sophomore at Dallas' Bishop Lynch High School but a Waxahachie resident.

Their father, Roy Edgar, coaches the 4-H team. He said the programs work hand-in-hand, with several competitors on both teams. Both programs also work to make sure the youths know not only how to shoot but how not to shoot and to be safe with firearms. "The competition is secondary," Roy said. "If kids don't know how to handle a firearm, that's when problems happen."

Participants must go through a safety orientation course before they're allowed on the team. Parents are also encouraged to take part in the course. During meets and practice, parents often work as safety monitors.

Don said the club motto is "Confidence breaks birds." It means the more confident a participant is, the more clay targets (commonly referred to as "clay pigeons") they will shoot.

"If you miss one, you have to regroup and go to the next. It takes real discipline," Booster Club Treasurer Stacey Labban said.

"There's a lot more that comes out of competitive shooting than winning," Don said. "It teaches them responsibility. The more you put in, the more you get out." NOW

— By Susan Simmons

Main Street Dental Arts PC 516 W. Main St., Ste. A Waxahachie, TX 75165 (972) 937-1841 https://craigvsmithdds.com/

Hours: Call for an appointment.

Main Street Dental Arts is a high-tech, old-fashioned dental practice. Dr. Craig Smith and his wife, Deborah, opened his dental practice in Waxahachie 24 years ago. After eight years of working with assistants to serve several patients at a time, Dr. Craig became unhappy with running from room to room and having other people perform so much of the work. He wanted to practice a different kind of dentistry. So, 16 years ago, the Smiths decided to change business models, and since that time, they have successfully operated a true, 100-percent family-owned and -operated dentist office. "One of the things our patients especially love about our office is that we only schedule one patient at a time, so that they are the only patient in the office when they receive care. Also, we almost always run on time, and so many of our patients tell us that they really appreciate that."

Deborah, who has a degree in biology from Austin College and obtains 20-40 hours of additional dental training each year, works as the dental assistant, the receptionist and the insurance specialist. Dr. Smith does all his own dental work and sterilization. "Since he does his own teeth cleaning, he is able to do an extended exam. He spends at least 30 minutes actually in the mouth of every patient, and this makes him feel good about really knowing them and their needs," Deborah said.

Dr. Smith does general dentistry, orthodontics and cosmetic procedures. He became an authorized Bioclear dentist 12 years ago. "I don't know why other dentists don't offer Bioclear," Deborah said. "Bioclear is a proprietary type of bonding that is much more affordable than traditional bonding. It is such an excellent product. Dr. Smith has become so good at Bioclear that some of our patients call him an artist. Bioclear bonding costs $495 per tooth, as opposed to $1,500 per tooth for traditional bonding, and for black triangles, it is even less than $495 per tooth. That is a huge savings, and the results are spectacular," Deborah said proudly.

ONE OF THE THINGS OUR PATIENTS ESPECIALLY LOVE ABOUT OUR OFFICE IS THAT WE ONLY SCHEDULE ONE PATIENT AT A TIME, SO THAT THEY ARE THE ONLY PATIENT IN THE OFFICE WHEN THEY RECEIVE CARE.

Dr. Smith is also an authentic PINHOLE® dentist. The Chao Pinhole® Surgical Technique, invented and patented by John Chao, D.D.S., is a scalpel-free, suture-free procedure for treating gum recession. "He had to take a series of classes to learn the PINHOLE® method and purchase the special instruments used in the procedure," Deborah explained. "I would highly suggest for anybody with gum recession to look into this method. It has so many benefits over the traditional methods of treating gum recession."

Even though the Smiths have an old-fashioned way of operating their business, they have fully invested in the most modern equipment. They have a digital scanner for impressions for a more accurate and comfortable experience. They also use 3-D imaging instead of X-rays. "That was a huge investment," Deborah said, "but the difference it makes in accuracy and the well-being of our patients is worth it."

The downside of running their own dental office is that the office door stays locked because Deborah is often assisting the dentist. "Sometimes I can't answer the phone, but if people leave a message, I call them back as soon as I finish assisting the dentist," Deborah explained. "Since the door stays locked, our patients cannot walk-in to make appointments. Many of our patients make their appointments through email or by texting (972) 814-4083."

The cheesy polenta was full of flavor, and the strawberry shortcake, truly divine. Since Tamya is graduating at only 16 years old, she will be taking a gap year before she attends college. She wants to spend that time experiencing real-world catering and business. "My amazing stepdad first taught me how to prepare pork chops when I was just 10 years old, and I have loved to cook ever since," Tamya said.

Tamya is an avid reader who loves the Percy Jackson young adult book series of adventure fiction and fantasy. She is a talented writer, as well as, an amazing chef.

After raising four kids and grandmothering 16 grandkids, Connie Shinpaugh has become a whiz in the kitchen! She grew up in Italy, Texas, and she still draws on some of the things her home economics teacher, Ann Hyles, taught her all those years ago. "My mother also taught me about cooking, and I have learned quite a lot from experimenting on my own," Connie explained. "My dad taught me to make pancakes when I was just 3 years old. I really enjoy cooking, it takes my mind off my troubles, and I love sharing with others."

Connie's style is down-home, Southern cooking. "Baking is my favorite," she said with a smile. "I love to hear my grandkids say, 'Nanna is the best cook ever!"" NOW

S'mores Stuffed Skillet Cookie

Nonstick cooking spray

- 2 16-oz. refrigerated chocolate chip cookie dough (divided use)
- I cup chocolate chips
- 2 sheets graham crackers, crumbled 1 cup mini marshmallows
- Sprinkle of flour, for rolling out dough Ice cream, to taste (optional)

Caramel, to taste (optional)

I. Preheat oven to 350 F. Lightly grease a 9-inch, cast-iron skillet or pie plate with nonstick cooking spray.

2. Press one tube of the cookie dough into the bottom of the pan. It should be at least 1/2-inch thick.

3. Sprinkle 1/2 cup chocolate chips onto the dough, followed by the graham cracker crumbs and then the marshmallows. Sprinkle remaining chocolate chips on top.

4. Lightly flour a work surface; roll out the second tube of cookie dough to 9 inches in diameter. Slide on top of the pan, pinching the edges together to seal.

5. Bake 25 minutes, or until the top is browned. Remove from oven; cool for 1 hour. Serve with ice cream and caramel, if desired.

Pork Tenderloin

3 lbs. pork tenderloin (1 pkg. of 2 tenderloins), cut into 4 pieces.

I lb. bacon

- 3/4 cup soy sauce
- 1 Tbsp. onion, minced
- 1/2 tsp. garlic salt
- 1 Tbsp. red or white wine vinegar
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- I dash pepper
- 3/4 cup brown sugar

I. Wrap tenderloin pieces in bacon; place in an 8 1/2x11-inch pan. Poke holes in the meat with a fork.

2. Combine the rest of the ingredients in a small bowl; stir well. Pour marinade over the meat.

3. Refrigerate, uncovered, for 2-3 hours, or overnight.

4. Bake at 300 F for 2-3 hours. If the bacon begins to burn, cover with foil after $1 \frac{1}{2}$ hours.

5. Remove from oven; cut meat into small pieces. Allow the meat to soak up the excess pan juices.

Snickerdoodles

1/2 cup butter, softened

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 1/2 cups, plus 2 Tbsp. white sugar (divided use)
- 2 eggs
- 2 tsp. vanilla extract (I like Mexican vanilla.)
- 2 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 tsp. cream of tartar
- I tsp. baking soda
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 2 tsp. ground cinnamon

I. Preheat oven to 400 F.

2. Cream together butter, shortening, 1 1/2 cups sugar, eggs and vanilla.

3. Blend in the flour, cream of tartar, soda and salt.

4. Shape rounded spoonfuls of dough into balls.

5. Mix remaining sugar and the cinnamon together. Roll the balls of dough in the sugar/cinnamon mixture.

6. Place dough balls 2 inches apart on an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 8-10 minutes, or until set, but not too hard. Remove immediately from the cookie sheet.

Slow Cooker Mongolian Beef

1 1/2 lbs. flank steak
1/4 cup cornstarch
2 Tbsp. olive oil
1/2 tsp. garlic, minced
3/4 cup soy sauce
3/4 cup water
3/4 cup brown sugar
1 cup carrots, grated
Green onions, to taste, for garnish
Rice, to taste

 Cut flank steak into thin strips.
 Add steak strips and cornstarch to a Ziploc bag; shake to coat.
 In a slow cooker, combine the next 6 ingredients; stir. Add the coated steak strips; stir again until well coated in the sauce.
 Cook on high for 2-3 hours, or on low for 4-5 hours, until tender. Garnish with green onions. Serve over rice.

gal. spiced apple cider
 gal. apple juice
 1/2 cups granulated sugar
 1/2 cups light brown sugar
 750-ml. bottle 190 proof Everclear grain alcohol whole cinnamon sticks

I. Combine cider, apple juice and sugars in a large stockpot; bring to a boil.

2. Remove from heat; let cool to room temperature.

3. Once the mixture is completely cool; add the alcohol.

4. Transfer to sterile mason jars. (I use 5 of the big 2000-plus ml. jars.)

5. Add 2 cinnamon sticks to each jar. Store jars in a dark, cool room.

Lasagna

2 15-oz. containers ricotta cheese

2 cups mozzarella cheese, shredded (divided use)

- 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese, grated (divided use)
- 2 eggs
- 1 lb. ground beef

2 10-oz. jars Ragú Old World Style Pasta Sauce 12 lasagna noodles, uncooked

Preheat oven to 375 F.
 Combine ricotta cheese, 1 cup mozzarella cheese, 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese and eggs in a bowl; set aside.

3. Brown ground beef. Drain; set aside. 4. Spread 1 cup pasta sauce in a 13x9-inch dish. Layer 4 uncooked noodles, then another cup of pasta sauce.

5. Layer with half of the ricotta cheese mixture and half of the ground beef. Repeat layers.

6. Top with remaining 4 uncooked noodles and 2 cups of pasta sauce.

7 Bake, covered tightly, for 1 hour. Remove from oven; sprinkle with remaining mozzarella cheese. Bake 10 more minutes.8. Serve topped with the remaining sauce and Parmesan cheese.

If you're looking for a new take on an old tradition. consider dyeing this year's Easter egg assortment with onion skins. It may sound odd, but the technique results in a beautiful stained-glass appearance, making the eggs both colorful enough for hunting and lovely enough to decorate with inside your home. Whether you're a DIYer or simply looking for something new for the kids to try, onion skin dyeing is a reasonably easy approach to Easter egg decorating. Note: The end result will be decorative, not edible eggs!

Christopher D. Schmitt, DPM

Step 1 – Assemble the necessary supplies.

Supplies:

Eggs, however many you want to dye Scraps of cloth, about 8 inches square, or nylon stockings Onion skins, brown skins for autumncolored results; purple for lilac/pink shades Rubber bands Saucepan Water Slotted spoon Bits of textured items, such as leaves, rice or flowers to add to your eggs' designs during boiling Optional: Mod Podge or cooking oil

Step 2 – Prepare for the dyeing process.

Start with a clean work surface upon which to lay out clean scraps of cloth. Peel five to six layers of onion skin, and place them atop the cloth. The skin will be in bits and pieces, which ultimately creates your egg's unique design.

Place bits of other small items, such as leaves or rice atop the peels. Remember, these added items need to be able to withstand boiling temperatures to have an impact on your final egg design.

Now you are ready to place one egg atop the peel. You may use blown eggs, taking extra care with them because of added fragility, if you'd like. Securely wrap the cloth around the egg and peelings. Wrap the egg as tightly as possible without breaking it in order to ensure a better final design. Tie the open ends together with a rubber band at the top of your egg. Complete this entire process with as many eggs as you wish to decorate.

Note: If using a nylon stocking, place leaves or flowers on the egg and wrap it at each end. With this variation, the onion skins are boiled in the pot with 2 tsp. of vinegar, not inside the cloth.

Step 3 – Time to boil.

Fill your pot or saucepan about half to three-quarters full with water, and bring to a boil. Once the water is boiling, insert a few wrapped eggs at a time. Eggs should have room to move freely about your pan rather than touching one another. Use multiple pans, if you'd like to boil several at once, and add water as it evaporates to keep the eggs covered.

Step 4 – The big reveal.

After boiling for about 30 minutes, remove each egg with a slotted spoon. Place them on an old cloth or paper towel-lined plate to cool. Allow the eggs to completely cool before gently removing the rubber band and cloth.

To make the eggs shiny, you cover them with Mod Podge Gloss or a bit of cooking oil. Mod Podge may increase the strength of your eggs, as well.

You are now ready to hide-and-seek your creative eggs, or simply display them to show off your creative Easter DIY skills. Either way, your onion skindyed creations will be fun to make and one of a kind.
