Amanda F., Crandall, TX

To be honest, I have never been on a diet or even considered modifications in my eating habits until recently. I broke my foot and had to have it surgically repaired over the fall. It ended up being non-weight bearing for months, drastically decreasing my activity.

I thought I was doing right by changing how much or what I ate, but I put myself into starvation mode and overall decreased my health, physically and mentally. My friend mentioned Diet Solution to me; I was highly skeptical so we called together.

I went to the consultation and this was the best decision I could have made. In 10 weeks, I lost 24 pounds and over 5 inches on my waist. Now, I have ample amount of energy, my foot has healed, and due to being at a healthy weight and eating properly, I feel confident I will continue to succeed in my goals.

Heather and the staff have been nothing but supportive. This journey has not felt like I'm going to an appointment or to see a clinician. The Burleson center has welcomed my family's involvement. In fact, their educational tools have impacted my household and co-workers.

Their approach is individualized and super effective. I do not view this as a diet. I see it as another tool for your toolbox to enable yourself to reach your goals, improve your overall health, gain lifelong knowledge, and impact others.

Elvis Presley had perhaps the most amazing voice ever to grace rock 'n' roll. But he had another quality that stood out even more. He loved his mother more than anyone else. He never forgot how special she was or the sacrifices she made for him.

I feel that way about my mother. She left this world in 1997, but she made sure I knew how much she loved me right up to the final day of her joy-filled life. Mom taught me responsibility, but also to enjoy life and all of its spontaneity. "Leave this life with no regrets, because you won't have a chance to get back in line for the ride again," she once said.

Mom was there when I was young to drive me to whatever sports practice/game was in season. When I entered the world of theater in high school, she never missed a play, often seeing performances two and three times. Though tired, I know, she was always the first to rise for an ovation.

She was there to drive to me to the hospital when I broke my ankle in a bicycle accident at age 9, and again when I broke my wrist in freshman football. When I went off to college, we spoke almost daily in the days of pre-email (Mom would have still preferred an actual phone conversation).

As we approach Mother's Day, let's all remember there is no one like Mom. She's queen. Even the King of Rock 'n' Roll knew that.

Happy Mother's Day!

EXPLORERS

— By Rick Mauch

The Burleson Police Department prides itself on constantly exploring new ways to better serve the community. One such way is to ensure the future with its Explorers Program. The program, officially named Burleson Police Explorers Post 4911, falls under the umbrella of Scouting and is for youths (male and female) ages 14-21. The Burleson chapter is led by Sergeant Shelly Henken, who has been with the force 10 years and is in her second year as lead advisor of the local program. “These kids have a good grasp on what they want to do,” Sgt. Henken said. “They want to do something to make a difference.”

Though the Burleson group is small, with only seven members, it’s an elite group. “We like to have like-minded individuals,” Sgt. Henken said. “A lot of the kids are in criminal justice classes at their schools, and they want to make an impact in the law enforcement community someday.”

Colby Smith recently wrapped up his first year on the Burleson Police Force and was named the department’s Rookie of the Year. He was in the local Explorers from 2012 to 2017 when he aged out at age 21. He is also the first student from Burleson Centennial High to come out of the program. “Being a part of the Explorer Program gave me a purpose in life by making me realize that my career in law enforcement was a calling,” Officer Smith said. “Being an Explorer helped me prepare for my career by allowing me to learn the basic fundamentals of law enforcement and the inner workings of the Burleson Police Department.

“The best part of the Explorer Program was being able to do ride-alongs,” he said. “They helped me apply the things I learned in the program to real life law enforcement, and they were a lot of fun on top of that.”

Burleson Police Chief Billy Cordell said, “The sky’s the limit for Officer Smith. He could be sitting in my chair someday. Officer Smith is at the top of every category, and I can’t help but say this program had a lot to do with that. He’s the poster boy for the Explorers.”

Another former member is Cody Marzahn, age 20, who has worked in the Johnson County Jail. “He’s very involved,” Sgt. Henken said.

Along with ride-alongs, Explorers learn and practice a variety of police techniques, such as building searches, arrests, search and seizure, traffic stops and accident investigations. Of course, they don't actually do these things, but rather learn about them in a controlled environment. "We try to make it fun," Sgt. Henken said. "I like to actually put them through practice scenarios. I'll use my patrol car as a suspect vehicle in the back parking lot."

Chief Cordell admits that the Explorers Program is a great recruitment tool. "It allows you to get in and work with officers, and to ask yourself, 'Is this the career I want to go into?'" he said. "It also allows officers to get to serve as role models for youth."

"You can equate the program to sports, band — any extracurricular activity," Chief Cordell continued. "It's another opportunity to help young people find a niche in life."

Burleson High School senior Micalah Tomlinson has been in the program for two years. "I like crime scene investigating. It's interesting — all the science involved. I want to go more to the detective side," she said.

Those who go through the program don't always enter law enforcement, but it does help them in other ways of serving their community and even their country. Some go into the military, others go on to law school. For example, former Explorers, such as Tanner Bates, Treg Davidson and Brad Dye are in the Marines, Navy and Air Force, respectively.

Joining the Explorers isn't easy. Among the things participants need in order to join are references, a good job history (if they've been employed), organizational skills, an explanation of hobbies and activities and a short written essay on why they are interested. "It's a long list," Sgt. Henken said with a grin.

Benefits include team building, working with others, respect for others and moral and ethical standards. "These are special young people," Sgt. Henken said. Ranks within the Explorers include corporal, sergeant, lieutenant and captain. "It kind of mirrors the stairsteps of police officers going up in rank," she explained.

The Burleson Explorers also compete against other Explorers teams, traveling to events throughout North Texas. The highlight is a three-day competition at The University of Texas at Arlington each year that features programs from all over the state. The locals have represented themselves and the department well throughout the years. "We've done pretty good at competition, I'm proud to say. They love getting dressed in uniform and competing," Sgt. Henken said.

The competition uniform consists of blue pants, a gray button-up shirt with a badge, duty belts, handcuffs, a diecast red imitation gun and boots. The everyday uniform for meetings is a little more laid-back with a gray T-shirt with the Explorers logo, black pants and boots. To help pay for equipment and competitions, the group holds fundraisers, such as a spaghetti dinner. They are also under the umbrella of the nonprofit Burleson Police Foundation. Of course, individuals can always choose to help, also.

Explorers can be found helping out at events around town. These include city events and the annual Burleson Police Department Open House. "It's building rapport among the community," Chief Cordell said. "They're building that relationship and a mentorship. These are just fine young people whom I can't wait to see have a great impact on the world." NOW

HAMMING IT

Not long ago, Allison Hollier had no idea what it meant to be a “ham.” She only knew she wanted to be prepared to help in case of an emergency. The term “ham” is a moniker that amateur radio operators apply to themselves and other amateur radio operators. However, there is nothing amateur about what Allison does.

“I wanted to get my license, so I could help with disaster events. I’m a weather nerd and fell into this by accident. It’s turned out to be so much fun, though,” she said.

Allison, a Burleson resident, became a ham in 2014 after passing an FCC exam. Today, Allison “KG5BHY” is a member and vice president of the Mansfield Johnson Amateur Radio Service, or MJARS.

MJARS is a nonprofit organization of approximately 100 hams. They assist the community with communication support during times of disaster, civil emergency and other occasions that serve the public interest. MJARS volunteers work together to provide critical services to the community at no cost to the government or taxpayers.

Allison is also working to bring more women into the hobby. Four years ago, she started a weekly on-air meeting for women radio operators to speak with other women in a welcoming environment. The boundaries are endless for the on-air meetings, or "nets," which are held every Monday night. "The first night we did it, we had someone call from Tennessee," Allison remembered. "Our net encourages women to get involved, participate and get past the mic fright that can sometimes plague newbies."

She has also helped MJARS triple its female membership. "And it's not just us. You're starting to hear more women on the air everywhere," she said. When local single women — or married women whose husbands aren't hams — need help with their stations, Allison organizes the MJARS Tech Team to help install or upgrade equipment.

"Allison is a shining star guiding women into what was once primarily a male-dominated hobby," her "Elmer," Jim Erickson "KBODBI," said.

An Elmer is a mentor to those new or learning the craft. Allison has done her own share of Elmering. "I don't know where the name comes from. It's just part of the jargon, and that's just part of all the fun," she said.

As part of MJARS, Allison is active in many community events. Among the largest is the Burleson Honey Tour bike ride, along with at least four other large area rides, one of which works with Harvest House and Johnson County Food Bank. Other outreach projects include teaching Scouts about amateur radio during the annual Jamboree on the Air event.

Each June, Allison and her fellow hams participate in the Amateur Radio Relay League Field Day. Hams all over the world set up stations and operate nonstop for 24 hours. "We pride ourselves on the number of visitors we attract to the event and how many non-hams we can convince to sit in front of the mic at our Get on the Air station," she said. "No matter your abilities or your disabilities, there is a way for everyone to participate in our events," she said.

Allison has spoken with operators from distant places, such as Puerto Rico, Guam and Canada. And she has used her amateur radio skills in the way she originally planned. She and MJARS assess and monitor changing weather conditions for the National Weather Service and partner with the cities of Burleson and Mansfield to man their Emergency Operations Centers in times of inclement weather.

"When the tornado hit Mansfield, I was running a storm spotting net. People were in their bathrooms talking to me on their portable radios. These were my friends," she said. "I was here in Burleson monitoring the weather and having to keep it together."

Amateur radio is also making an impact with young people. "For all the tech talk, ham radio is about people," she said. "But I can entice them with cutting-edge technology, such as the MJARS high-speed wireless mesh network that covers much of Johnson and Tarrant counties. You can send text messages and emails with radio, too. You can talk to astronauts, even, with ham radios.

"There are just so many things you can do with a ham radio. But to me, it still comes down to, 'Can I talk to the person a few doors down in a storm?'" NOW

Sundays: Closed

The days of kids crying when getting a haircut are over. Thanks to Cookie Cutters Haircuts For Kids, youngsters may never want to leave the barber shop.

The owners, Aubrey Musoma and his wife, Katrina Willie-Musoma, have opened the first hair cutting salon of its kind in Burleson, catering to youth as young as 8 months old. Since their first customer came in on October 29, 2018, the response has been strong for the local installment of the nationwide chain based out of Salt Lake City, Utah.

“A lot of people are glad we’re here because now they don’t have to go into Fort Worth,” Aubrey said. “So far, the response has been great.”

Oh, to be 5 years old and need a haircut! Youngsters can frolic in the large play area while waiting their turn, then give mom and dad some exercise as they try to corral them for their turn in the stylist’s chair.

“The kids love the slide,” Aubrey said. “We’ve had a mom sit for about 10 minutes after the haircut because the kid wanted to keep playing on the slide.”

Katrina said, “We have a rambunctious 4-year-old son and he loves it here. We also have lots of nieces and nephews.”

And when it’s time for the haircut itself, children don’t sit in just any chair. They can choose to sit in an airplane, a hot rod, even a pink Cadillac. The shampoo station is a fire truck.

And all the while, they can watch their favorite show on TV. “Each child gets to pick what they want to watch while they’re getting a haircut,” Aubrey said. “And every child leaves with a lollipop and a balloon.”

Neither Aubrey nor Katrina do the hair cutting themselves. They have a team of professionals, which includes experience working with children in addition to their styling skills. "The stylists make it fun for the kids," Aubrey said.

"Our stylists are very patient," Katrina added.

Aubrey spent the past five years working in risk management for a local merchant services provider. His father is a hotelier back home in Zambia.

"OUR MOTTO IS HAIRCUTS SHOULD BE FUN, STRESS-FREE FOR PARENTS AND FUN FOR KIDS. FAMILIES ARE TRYING TO NAVIGATE EVERYTHING FROM HAIRCUTS TO SOCCER PRACTICE."

Katrina is a pediatrician in Mansfield. "So, kids were a natural fit," she said. "I remember hating going to the hair salon as a kid, but working with moms as a pediatrician, I know their struggles. One of the things that also makes us attractive is our stylists are trained to work with children with special needs."

They feature local specials, which can be found on their website. Also, Tuesday is family day, on which after paying full price ($1795) for the first haircut, each additional child's cut is $12. There are also prepaid package specials that can be purchased, and the loyalty program allows customers to build points to use for future services or retail products.

"We see Burleson as a growing city," Aubrey said. "We see a lot of families leaving Fort Worth and coming here. This is perfect for them."

"Our motto is haircuts should be fun, stress-free for parents and fun for kids. Families are trying to navigate everything from haircuts to soccer practice."

And though they cater to children, they have had adults get their hair cut, Aubrey said. "We haven't had a mom yet, but we've had dads. We have adult chairs." NOW

Zoomed In: Clarissa Nugent

By Rick Mauch

She is not related to Ted Nugent, but Clarissa Nugent does love music, and thanks to some nurses and doctors by her side as a child, she was able to become a singer and musician. Now, she plans to enter the nursing profession herself — in the pediatric field.

“I had a cleft palate at birth. I kind of want to pay back what my nurses did,” she said. “I’m from a big family, and I’m used to kids.”

Clarissa is a senior nursing student at The University of Texas at Arlington. The 22-year-old still plays the fiddle and guitar and even teaches at Valerie’s Music, but she’s opening more books than music cases these days. She will always have a love for music, but admits her life’s focus is now on nursing.

Tom Shackleford does some carving at Russell Farms Art Center.

Angela Gutwein shares her new book, Flying Lessons, at a meeting of the Heart & Soul Writing Group.

Visitors check out the classic cars at the Cops N Cruisers event hosted by the Burleson Police Department.

SCOTT TAYLOR

— By Lindsay L. Allen

Scott Taylor enjoys the opportunity to entertain and feed a crowd. While he may be an engineer by day, he finds reasons to come home and prepare food all will enjoy, particularly with his grill and smoker. This could be one of the reasons why his high school sweetheart has stuck by his side after 33 years of marriage!

“I love cooking with cumin, and you can never go wrong with butter and garlic,” he said. “I picked up an interest for cooking at a young age and am always looking for different dishes that people will enjoy.”

Scott isn't afraid of a crowd either. He has prepared food for more than 350 people all out of his double-oven kitchen! NOW

EXPERIENCING UNMARRIED BEA

Teddy Roosevelt said, "In the Grand Canyon, Arizona has a natural wonder, which is in kind absolutely unparalleled throughout the rest of the world. ... The ages have been at work on it, and man can only mar it."

While man added buildings for the comfort and convenience of visitors, the canyon remains untouched and raw in exquisite beauty. Detours along the way make reaching that beauty an unforgettable excursion.

Nostalgic stops along Route 66 make the scenic drive to Grand Canyon Village a memorable adventure, each stop adding color to the journey. Graffiti at the Cadillac Ranch in Amarillo. Cars and murals at the '50s-style Blue Swallow Motel in Tucumcari, N.M. Vintage photos of movie and TV stars from the 1950s at the El Rancho Motel in Gallup, N.M. And, of course, Eagles' music fans can't pass up photo ops standing on the corner in Winslow, Ariz.

Driving through New Mexico and Arizona affords mile after mile of picturesque mountainous wonder. Reserve time to visit the Petrified National Forest and the Painted Desert during your journey. Stop on the way at historic diners for old-fashioned food and a signature pie or milk shake.

Near the Grand Canyon, Williams, Ariz., is an unexpected treasure of its own. Shops and galleries line the streets in the small town, offering canyon memorabilia or arts and crafts from local artisans. Here, the Grand Canyon Railway departs daily for Grand Canyon National Park.

Built in 1908 by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, the depot served as an oasis for travelers. Listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the Williams Depot and original Fray Marcos Hotel (a Harvey House Hotel) represent the oldest concrete structures in Arizona.

While passengers wait to board the train, costumed entertainers treat the crowd to a Wild West show, setting the mood for a journey back in time. Since its initial trip on September 17, 1901, the millions of enchanted Grand Canyon Railway guests have included presidents, celebrities and ordinary individuals.

In the late 1800s, only the most adventurous explorers experienced the Arizona canyon. As railroads tied the nation together, the main line connected Chicago to Los Angeles passing through Williams, Ariz. Though originally intended to transport ore from the Anita Mines, investors soon realized the potential for tourism.

Because ore and mining proved unsustainable, the railroad relied on tourism to recoup its investment.

Walk-Ins Welcome

The $3.95 train ride replaced the $15 eight-hour stagecoach ride from Flagstaff, allowing visitors to experience the Grand Canyon. The adventure is definitely worth the 2019 ticket price.

Train hosts educate passengers about the history and topography of the area. As the train nears the station, hosts offer information about the layout of Grand Canyon Village and the many food options inside the park. The El Tovar Dining Room, a five-star restaurant, provides an elegant atmosphere for a delicious gourmet lunch.

Over the years, the Santa Fe built structures to accommodate an increasing number of tourists. In 1905, El Tovar became one of the finest hotels in the Southwest. In a progressive move, the railroad hired a woman, Mary Elizabeth Jane Colter, to design buildings that became the signature of the Grand Canyon National Park. Landmarks include the Hopi House, Lookout Studio, Bright Angle Lodge, Desert View Watchtower and Hermit's Rest.

These structures are evidence of Colter's distinctive imprint, a natural style of Pueblo Indian architecture. Garden spots, the American flag and architecture of the buildings in the village enhance the canyon experience. Plants and wildlife naturally add color.

Time passes quickly in Grand Canyon Village. Some visitors hike deep into the canyon, while others linger in shops or museums. Many stand in awe at the rim and soak in the magnificence, attempting to commit every detail to memory, experiencing, as Roosevelt said, "the wonderful grandeur, the sublimity, the great loneliness and beauty of the canyon."

No words describe the breathtaking beauty. Pictures fail to capture its magnificence. Only personal experience explains why Roosevelt loved Grand Canyon. NOW
