“I HAVE A HISTORY WITH BEING THE LOUD ONE, THE FUNNY ONE.

CLOWNING AROUND

— By Emma McKay

“One day in 2024, I woke up and realized that I could do whatever I wanted when it came to makeup,” Lynx Sneeringer said. “Halloween was coming up, and I was like, I could just be a clown. My brother, Drew, and I dressed up in clown outfits, and we drove on the town.” Falling instantly in love with this jester persona, Lynx the clown was born. “The next month, I dressed up as a clown to go vote.

“I think my favorite canvas has been people’s faces and bodies.” As part of being in the theater department in high school, Lynx took an SFX makeup class, learning how to turn actors into visually different people. When donning the clown makeup for the first time, Lynx took inspiration from popstar Chappell Roan. “From 2024 to now, she’s been basically my whole life. I just fell in love with her whole vibe, and I’m like, I could do something like that.” When working with the face paint, Lynx drew inspiration from a couple of the star’s album covers. “I want to be like that someday, where I could be somebody’s inspiration, and I can’t do that unless I am unapologetically myself. And so clowning is the way I’m going to go.”

Much of Lynx’s comedic delivery was learned from watching John Mulaney’s Netflix specials. Known for his grandiose recounting of personal anecdotes, most of Mulaney’s bits are works of fiction. “Clowns and comedians tell stories. Whether those stories are true or not isn’t really important to the bit. So revealing that the story you just told as a joke was not true is kind of like magicians who reveal how they do their tricks. It ruins the magic,” Lynx said. “A lot of my jokes are just straight up lies. Like, I go on this long spiel about something super crazy that happens, and then I wait for [the audience] to go, ‘Really?’ And I go, ‘No. I made it all up!’ I waste seven minutes of their time, then I get a good, harsh laugh out of it.”

In addition to telling tall tales, the clown performs a considerable amount of physical comedy and traditional tricks such as juggling, balloon animal crafting, face painting and some unicycling. "A lot of my child-friendly stuff is just singing The Wiggles or putting on music. So, I want to learn to play the keytar. Then, I'm going to learn how to play the keytar while riding the unicycle. It's going to be great!"

One of Lynx's favorite bits to perform is with a kazoo. "I will ask somebody a random quiz question like, 'What's 39 times 42?' And then as they're thinking about it, I'll go do do do on the kazoo."

Whenever Drew is in town, the siblings go out in public and perform together. The two enjoy bouncing jokes off each other and upping the ante for their audiences. "We have this code like body language for whenever we're trying to lie about something for a bit and then just confirm it to make it sound even worse. It's really great."

Over the past year-and-a-half of causing joyous mischief in the community, Lynx's comedic skills and clown personality have become more refined. Friends and members of the extended Sneeringer family have even invited their humorous loved one to put on shows at their birthday parties and weddings. During these performances, Lynx has enjoyed organizing games for attendees to join in on the foolish hijinks.

When the clown makeup comes off, Lynx works as a tax specialist. During moments of free time, the 20-year-old indulges in other creative outlets such as drawing and animation. The comedian wants to one day start a comedy podcast with Drew, similar to the YouTubers the Game Grumps. Lynx finds fulfillment in clowning and hopes to continue growing as a performer and occasional party host.

"I have a history with being the loud one, the funny one. I think the clowning was just a realization that I can put on this persona, which is really, truly me, without limitations of, What are they going to think of me?" Lynx admitted. "I feel more myself when I'm in my clown makeup." NOW

Zoomed In: Ashley Cummings and Bethany DeWald

By Jordan DeWald

Ashley Cummings and Bethany DeWald visited together at the Burleson ISD Art Show. Mrs. Cummings is an art teacher at Frazier Elementary. Bethany was an art and photography student of Mrs. Cummings while attending Frazier. Bethany is now a freshman art student at Burleson High School, thanks to the positive introduction she received at Frazier. While she was a Frazier student, there was a day when students were encouraged to dress up as a teacher they admired. Bethany chose to dress up like Mrs. Cummings. When asked about her teacher, Bethany said "Art was always a class I looked forward to. Mrs. Cummings made each class fun and encouraged me."

The art teachers at BISSD host an art show each year where the community can view the talented students' work. For 10 years in a row, the Texas Art Education Association has recognized BISSD as a District of Distinction.
